TURKS DEMAND BETTER TERMS

Claim Big Victory at Chatalja To Justify Act.

MAKE A THREAT TO CONTINUE THE WAR

Terms of Peace Are Rejected by the Moslems.

It Is Reported That the Moslems Make a Final Desperate Effort To Break Out of Adrianople, but Are Driven Back with Bloody Losses. Prisoners Tell of Typhus Raging in the City.

London, Nov. 21.—Turkey has rejected the armistice terms of the Balkan allies and a renewal of the fighting along the Chatalja lines is imminent, according to a news agency dispatch received here from Constantinople.

The dispatch states that Nazim Pacha, Turkish commander-in-chief, has been instructed to resume operations against the Bulgarians.

Wants Terms Modified.

London, Nov. 21.—A threat to continue the war against the Balkan allies, unless Bulgaria modifies the terms of the armistice, is made in an interview with Grand Vizier Kiamil Pacha, telegraphed to the Evening News from Constantinople today. This quotes the grand vizier as declaring that the Bulgarian terms, as they stand now, are impossible of acceptance

Claim Victory.

Constantinople, Nov. 21.—The Trukish government officially announced today that the Turks had won a great victory in the last battle along the Chatalja lines, stating that 8,000 of the attacking Bulgarian army had been killed. This indicated that the Turkish government would use the repulse of the allies as a basis for demands for better peace terms.

According to the details of the three days' battle, as announced by the government, many Servians, as well as Bulgarians, fell in the final assault upon the city defenses. The right and left wings of the attacking army lost heavily, particularly the right where shells from a Turkish warship, at the entrance of the lake of Biyuk Chekeji, fell into an ammunition train, which exploded, causing terrific havoc.

Turkish warships at the Bulgarian left wing at Lake Derkos also caused heavy losses, throwing their sheils into the Bulgar camp.

Turks Take Guns.

The Turks also claimed to have captured many guns from the Servians, who were fighting with the Bulgars

During the eight-hour armistice, which was declared for the purpose of allowing burial of the dead, Turks found many members of the Fifty-Fifth Servian infantry upon the field According to signs on the battlefield, the Servians had been pushed to the front and, for a time, bore the brunt of the Turkish cannonade.

Telegrams from Salonika, charging the Greeks with outrages in the ghetto, will be used by the Turkish government to offset allegations of barbarities by the Turkish soldiers in Albania and Thrace. According to the Salonika dispatches the Greek soldiers burned synagogues and attacked many Jewish women.

There are now 36,000 Bulgarians in Salonika, most of the Greek soldiers having been withdrawn from the city.

Negotiations Are Begun.

Vienna, Nov. 21.—Negotiations between General Savoff, the Bulgarian commander-in-chief, and Nazim Pacha, the Turkish minister of war and commander-in-chief at Chatalja, began today at Hademkeui, according to advices received here.

A detachment of Turkish regulars was sent to escort General Savoff through the Turkish lines to Hademkeui, which is behind the Chatalja defenses Turkey's two plenipotentiaries, appointed to assist General Nazim Pacha, arrived at Hademkeui this morning They are Izzet Pacha, chief-of-staff, and Chadon Bey, counsellor-of-state

Conditions Are Awful.

Constantinople, Nov 21.—There are 15,000 dead and dying cholera victims in the Turkish camp at San Stefano and Hademkeui. Stations of the Red Crescent, the Turkish branch of the Red Cross, have been erected at each camp, but eyewitnesses of conditions say that absolutely nothing is being done for the relief of the sufferers.

At San Stefano the camp is situated along a railway embankment fifty feet high, and the edge which borders the railway is lined with dead bodies, pitched from passing troop trains.

At some points as many as twenty bodies are lying together. Stricken soldiers, who have strength to crawl, have sought shelter of buildings, as there are no hospital tents.

Eyewitness Tells Story.

One eyewitness told of seeing more than 100 dying soldiers lying in the shelter of a stable, many bodies being completely covered by manure The dying cry piteously for bread and water, but the sentries make no effort to relieve the suffering.

Recently there have been rains and wind which hurried the death of many of the victims. Few soldiers have been removed from the San Stefano camp to this city for treatment, but those who have, give appalling descriptions of the scenes of desolation, suffering and death. The fever which accompanied attacks of cholera makes the sufferings from thirst intolerable

A donkey, drawing a water cart, passes through San Stefano twice a day with water for the wounded, but only those able to stagger to the cart get any of the water.

Turks Make Final Fight.

Sofia, Nov. 21.—The beleagured Turkish army, under General Shukri Pacha, cooped up in Adrianople, has made a final, desperate effort to break the lines of the Bulgarian army investing the city, only to be driven back with bloody losses.

News of a great twenty-hour battle between the Turks and Bulgarians at Adrianople, following a fierce sortie from Turkish works, was received here today from Bulgarian headquarters at Stara Zagora. The dispatches stated that the Turks had lost heavily and have been beaten at every point.

Turkish prisoners told the Bulgarians that typhus was raging in the city and that hundreds of noncombatants have been killed. Soldiers and townspeople alike are on starvation rations.

If the armistice and subsequent peace negotiations are successful, the Adrianople fight may prove the last battle of the war

Servians Report 20,000 Captured.

Belgrade, Servia, Nov. 21.—Twenty thousand Turks were killed and wounded when the Servians captured Monastir Monday, according to a report received here today Servians also captured forty big guns. The Servian loss was not made known.

Premier Pasitch remained firm today in his attitude toward Austria in the issue which arose over Servia's determination to occupy Adriatic seaports. Reports that Servia is yielding were declared, by leading officials of the Servian government, to be unfounded. They declared the granting of permission to representatives of

300 LOSE LIVES IN GREAT STORM

Hurricane and Tidal Wave Hit Island of Jamaica.

10,000 PERSONS ARE RENDERED HOMELESS

Martial Law Proclaimed in the Stricken District.

Word Reaches Kingston That Western End of Island Suffers Terribly and Property Damage Will Reach $7,500,000—Many Ships Are Sunk and the Beaches Are Littered with Wreckage and Dead Bodies.

Kingston, Jamaica, Nov 21.—At least 300 persons were killed in a hurricane and tidal wave which devastated the western end of this island, according to reports received by the government today. Ten thousand are homeless and the damage is conservatively estimated at $7,500,000

Meager advices from the zone of destruction, which are trickling in over shattered telegraph wires, indicate that the death list may go to 1,000. The storm is still raging, but its intensity is decreasing.

Martial law, enforced by 300 artillerymen, was declared by the government today at Savanna la Mar and Lucea, where the full force of the destructive elements was felt. The government is distributing shelter tents, blankets and provisions among the homeless.

Savanna la Mar and Lucea were nearly wiped off the map by the tidal wave and the wind which blew over 100 miles an hour at the height of the hurricane. Many ships were sunk and the beach at Montego bay, upon which the towns were situated, is littered with wreckage and dead bodies The combined population of the two towns was about 5,000

Heavy rains, which reached their height Monday night, washed out many miles of the Jamaica railway. A vessel, arriving here today, brought word that the entire wharf frontage of Montego bay had been wrecked and that over fifty bodies had been recovered in one spot. When the ship left, no attempt had been made to search the debris of wrecked buildings.

Washington, Nov. 21 —Following the receipt of newspaper reports from the West Indies today, telling of heavy loss of life as a result of a tidal wave, the American Red Cross began the collection of funds for the relief of the homeless Jamaicans.

"While we are rather embarassed at present by the necessity of sending money to the Balkans," said Miss Mabel Boardman, head of the Washington office, "we will do everything in our power to aid the stricken.

"The American Red Cross sent $5,000 to Martinique at the time of the disaster there, and we hope to be able to do at least as well this time. We will also send clothing and food if necessary."

HAS NOT OFFERED BRYAN PORTFOLIO

Governor Wilson Denies the Report to That Effect.

Hamilton, Bermuda, Nov. 21.—With a view of obtaining a definite and final statement from President-elect Wilson regarding the numerous reports concerning prospective appointments in the new cabinet, and with especial reference to the report current in the United States that W. J Bryan is to be secretary of state and the chief cabinet maker in the new administration, a reporter yesterday sought out Governor Wilson and placed the various rumors before him. The governor smiled for a moment and then said:

"All statements about my cabinet may be disregarded until I make an announcement myself.'

The governor was then asked if he had offered a cabinet position to anybody, and his emphatic reply was that he had not.

Bryan Denies Report.

Waycross, Ga., Nov. 21.—After delivering a short address to the Bunn Bell students, this morning, W. J Bryan left for Savannah, where he speaks tonight. He was given an enthusiastic welcome in Waycross, and hundreds from the country surrounding were here to meet the distinguished visitor.

Discussing the latest reports from Bermuda, to the effect that he would become secretary of state, Mr Bryan denied that there were any offers pending and that he had yet to confer with Mr. Wilson regarding any office or any man for any office. He said Mr Wilson had gone to Bermuda to rest and not to select his cabinet, and that all reports were mere guesses of imaginative newspaper correspondents

HYDE BRIBERY TRIAL OPENED

The Ex-City Chamberlain of New York

IS CALLED BETRAYER OF A PUBLIC TRUST

Prosecutor Says He Juggles Huge Sum.

District Attorney Whitman Tells the Jury That the Case Involves the Fraudulent Use of More Than $1,000,000 of the City's Money. Declares He Will Produce Evidence To Convict the Accused.

New York, Nov. 21—Depicting the defendant as a betrayer of a public trust and a juggler of huge sums, which he was paid to guard, District Attorney Whitman opened the bribery trial of Charles H. Hyde, ex-city chamberlain and former law partner of Mayor Gaynor, today,. with an address to the jury. In which he confidently promised to produce evidence which would convict the accused.

The district attorney's address shows that the charge against Hyde, while dealing for the purposes of punishment with only a $130,000 and a $13,500 transaction, is a matter involving the fraudulent use of more than $1,000,000 by the ex-city chamberlain

"The defendant has been indicted by the grand jury of this county, said Whitman, "being charged with having committed the crime of asking for and agreeing to receive a bribe and of receiving an unlawful fee.

"At the time this indictment was found, he was chamberlain of the city of New York, an office substantially that of treasurer. The indictment alleges that Joseph G. Robin was in control of the Northern bank, one of the depositories of city money.

Unlafully Compels Loan.

It charges that Hyde unlawfully and ickedly and corruptly compelled Robin to cause the Northern bank to loan the Carnegie Trust company $130,000, which loan was to the personal advantage and benefit of Hyde and that, as an inducement for the making of said loan, Hyde promised to increase the amount of money belonging to the city of New York kept on deposit in the Northern bank.

"We will show that the loan was made and that the amount on deposit in the bank as increased, as Hyde had promised it would be. This is not an ordinary case of bribery, where a public officer, in exchange for the payment directly to him of bills or cash, betrays his trust. It is a far more insidious affair.

"We will show that, within a few weeks from the time William J. Cummins enlisted Hyde's aid, $1,000,000 of the funds of New York city were deposted in the Carnegie Trust company, Hyde being the first city chamberlain to use that institution"

Mr. Whitman then told how, in the efforts of the Carnegie Trust company managers to conceal the real condition of that tottering institution, they had juggled their cash and bonds, selling $200,000 worth of New York city bonds for cash, thus impairing their capital investmen.t

Says Nebraskan Should Go to England So Champ Clark and Oscar Underwood Can Appear in Washington Without Disguise—Would Like To See Nebraskan in Knee Breeches and Silk Stockings.

Louisville, Ky., Nov. 21.—Henry Watterson, in a Courier-Journal editorial, nominates William J Bryan for ambassador to England, after expressing the fear that, if Mr Bryan is made secretary of state, the administration will not be large enough to hold both Mr Bryan and President Wilson, also that the Nebraskan has personal grudges with Champ Clark and Oscar Underwood that would interfere Therefore, says Mr. Watterson:

"The Courier-Journal, out of its consuming love for both Mr. Wilson and Mr. Bryan, nominates Mr Bryan for ambassador to the court of St. James It will cut the Gordian knot, solve the problem, lift the veil and remove the pressure

"There need be no friction or thought of friction That 'long jaw' and that 'bulging bald spot' will be separated by miles and leagues of the multitudinous sea incarnadine—or words to that effect—and Champ and Oscar can come and go between the White House and the capitol without hindrance, or disguise. Celestials Want To Get Province of Mongolia.

Climax of Series of Cablegrams Is Reached When Young China Association Opens Public Campaign for Aid—Lecturers Sent Throughout Chinatown Explaining Situation. Army Reported Mobilized.

San Francisco, Nov. 21—Chinatown is in a ferment over the receipt of cablegrams that Chung Hwa, republic is preparing for a war with Russia, for the possession of the province of Mongolia.

The big secret societies, which fostered the revolutionary movement and led the campaign for funds have, for the last week, been interchanging cablegrams with President Yuan Shi Kai and Governor Wu Hon Man, of Quang Tung province, concerning the situation in Mongolia.

The climax was reached last night when the Young China association, the society organized by Dr. Sun Yat Sen, China's liberator, opened a public campaign for funds to sustain a war with Russia.

Lecturers were sent through Chinatown today bearing placards announcing "Chinese-Russian War Lectures."

At street corners the Lecturers explained to the Chinese the situation, saying that war was imminent and that funds were necessary to aid China The situation parallels the action last September when the Young China association publicly opened the campaign for funds for the Chinese revolutionary movement.

Dispatches have been received here by Yok Gook Har, secretary to Fung Chi You, secretary of state of Yuan Shi Kai's cabinet, to the effect that an army of 60,000 has been mobolized in Pekin and that General Wong Hing, hero of the revolution, has been appointed its leader.

ADMITS OTHER IMPROPRIETIES

Miss Farley Makes Damaging Statement.

RELATIONS WITH HER FIANCE ARE INTIMATE

New Turns Weakens Defense Materially.

The Accused Girl Says She Buys Cartridges While on Way to Park, the Day Zollinger Is Killed—Declares Man Is in a Bad Mood—Relates Other Events in Relation with the Slain Man.

Columbus, Nov. 21.—The first damaging admission during the cross-examination of Miss Cecelia Farley, on trial for her life for the alleged murder of Alvin E. Zollinger, an advertising solicitor, last May, came shortly before the noon adjournment of court today, when she admitted having had improper and intimate relations with her sweetheart and fiance, Jerome Quigley, for some time prior to the tragedy that cost Zollinger his life. She had successfully evaded the grilling cross-fire of questions put to her by Prosecutor Turner up to that time, and the admission came as a surprise.

Miss Farley's relations with Quigley were supposed to have been entirely proper and the intimation of intimacy made today threw a different light on them. It weakened her defense materially, because it was the first admission of improper relations with any one outside of Zollinger, whom she had steadfastly declared forced his relations on her and coerced her to continue her intimacy with him.

When court adjourned for the noon recess, it was expected Miss Farley's cross-examination would occupy the balance of the day. She was to be subjected to a severe grilling in which the state hoped to force admissions that would weaken her story of the actual shooting, in which she had declared the revolver had accidentally exploded during a struggle between herself and Zollinger for its possession.

Story Not Weakened.

Columbus, Nov. 21.—Standing up well under a grilling fire of cross-examination, which had failed to weaken the story told by her on direct examination, Miss Cecelia Farley held her own during the morning session of her trial today, in which she is charged with the murder of Alvin E Zollinger, an advertising solicitor, in Franklin park last May.

Speaking in low tones that were scarcely audible to even the jury and the attorney ranged in front and on each side, Miss Farley answered question after question in connection with her relations with Zollinger without making any admissions of a damaging nature.

Dressed entirely in black, with her hat set forward, covering her eyes, and looking constantly at the floor in front of her, the young woman evaded the stare of the crowds in the court-room.

Explaining the events leading up to the day of the shooting, she told of how Zollinger had hounded her in spite of her protests that he leave her alone. On the day Zollinger was shot, Miss Farley said he came to the office building where she was working as stenographer, and asked her to go to Franklin park with him and meet Jerome Quigley, the young man to whom she was engaged and to whom Zollinger strenuously objected.

Go To Settle the Matter.

"We will all three of us go out there and settle this thing together," Miss Farley testified Zollinger told her. She said she had a revolver in her purse and thought Zollinger had one in his pocket. On the way to Franklin park, Zollinger went into a drug store for a moment, and Miss Farley went across the street to a hardware store and purchased some cartridges.

"I thought that we might need protection, as Zollinger was in a bad mood," Miss Farley testified.

This morning Miss Farley told of Zollinger having objected to her filling a dinner engagement with a Toledo ball player, named Bill Nance, about two years prior to the shooting. She also told of a buggy ride she took with Zollinger, shortly before the shooting, in which he said she was practically forced to accompany him.

One place Zollinger got out of the buggy and went into a store, leaving her alone in the buggy, but she said she could not drive off as she did not "know how to manage the horse."

It was expected that most of today's session of court would be consumed in the girl's cross-examination.

MAY BE READY WITHIN A YEAR

The Panama Canal Is Nearing Completion.

FINISHING OF LOCK GATES BIGGEST JOB

Remaining Before Two Oceans Are Connected.

Colonel George W. Goethals Makes His Annual Report to Secretary of War—Gives Detailed Account of All That Is Done in Zone That Affects the Canal Commission or the Government.

Washington, Nov 18.—That the Panama canal will be completed within the next twelve months is clearly indicated by Colonel George W Goethals, in his annual report to the secretary of war, which was made public here last night.

While the chief engineer of the biggest job on earth does not say in so many words that his labors will be through in a year, he contrasts the work that was done during the fiscal year ending June 30, 1912, with what work remains to be done and the reasonable deduction is that, by this time next year, the gigantic task will be at an end and vessels will be threading their way, back and forth between the Atlantic and Pacific oceans, through the world's greatest artificial waterway

The most important work that is yet to be done is the completion of the lock gates All the steel and other material that is necessary to make these gates are now in the shops of the canal zone and the work is going forward rapidly.

The report gives a detailed account of everything that has been done in the zone during the fiscal year which in any way affects the canal commission, or the government. This commission has not only had the actual work of constructing the canal to look after, but its members have had to act as diplomatic agents for the government in treating with the authorities of the Republic of Panama, a task which has at times required the most delicate tact

In June, 1912, there were 31,957 people on the pay roll of the commission, with an aggregate salary of $1,500,000.

The population of the zone at the present time is 62,810. Of this number 42,174 are employes and officials of the United States government, their wives and children

During the year endlug June, 30 last, there were 7,055 arrests; 6,452 males and 603 females At the time the report was written there were 141 convicts in the penitentiary at Calubra But this building has since been removed to make room for the canal work and the convicts are held in a stockade

The commission conducts nineteen hotels throughout the zone, three night restaurants, eighteen European-laborers' messes and eighteen common-laborers' kitchens, out of which they made a total profit last year of $37,517 65

But all these profits accrued from the laborers messes and kitchens, there being a loss on the hotels of $12,085.37

The old French scrap, which the commission bought for $215,00 was sold for about $75,000 in relation to the health conditions on the isthmus the report says

The total admissions to hospitals and sick camps, including those sick in quarters during the year, was 48,307, the daily average sick was 22 91 per cent out of every 1 000 employes, as against 24 77 per cent for 1910-11 and 22 01 per cent for 1909-10, on the basis that the total numbers employed during the years mentioned were 50,008, 49,129, and 50,535 respectively

The total number of deaths among employes was 508 of which thirty-five were American, seventy-nine were white employes of other nationalities, and 394 were blacks The total number of deaths from violence among all employes was 154, as against 178 for the preceding year In addition, on the recommendation of the medical examining board, 193 deportations were made, 141 for disease and fifty-two for injuries

BATHTUB TRUST IS KNOCKED OUT

Supreme Court Affirms Decision of Lower Court.

MONOPOLY COMES THROUGH PATENTS

Defendants Control 195 Out of 250 Furnaces.

Fifty Are Named as Defendants by the Government, Sixteen Corporations and Thirty-Four Individuals. Main Issue in the Suit Is Whether Manipulation of a Patent Can Be a Monopoly.

Washington, Nov 18.—The supreme court today affirmed the decision of the circuit court of appeals dissolving the bathtub trust. Fifty defendants were named by the government in its bill asking for the dissolution of the trust, sixteen corporations and thirty-four individuals.

It was allowed that the defendants owned 195 of the 250 furnaces in the country and, through re-sale agreements, were in combination with 100 jobbers, four-fifths of the total number in the United States.

The alleged combination was brought about by means of patents on a dredger, an implement used for sifting the white powder over the articles to be coated with porcelain.

Ostensibly as a royalty for the use of the patent, the manufacturers agreed to pay to the association a fee of $125 for each furnace, and to subscribe to the trade agreement not to sell "seconds," not to sell a jobber who did not sign a trade agreement, and not to sell below certain prices

Part Is Returned.

A portion of this fee was to be returned after a certain length of time, but an amount, varying from $40,000 to $50,000, remained in the hands of the officers of the association, constituting practically cash bail or guaranty for the observance of the agreement Similarly, by means of a rebate system, a certain sum, constituting a cash bail given by the jobber, remained in the hands of the association

The main question at issue in the case was whether by the manipulation of a patent, a monopoly could be built up which under other circumstances would constitute a restraint of trade The trust laid stress upon the patent feature of the case, and insisted that the alleged combination or association had benefited the consumer and reduced prices

The circuit court of appeals decided in favor of the government and ordered the trust dissolved and then the trust appealed to the supreme court, which handed down its decision today.

The Benefits Derived, Blessings Reaped and Privileges Enjoyed Obligate the Fortunate To Go Forth and Scatter Them—The Mission Field Is Entire World.

Rev. Paul M. Schroeder, of Cleveland, a classmate of Rev K. A. Roth, filled the pulpit at the Salem Evangelical church, Sunday evening It was the thirtieth anniversary of the Ladies' Aid Society, of the church, and an excellent discourse was delivered on the subject "The Debt of the Church to Home Mission" Rev. Mr. Schroeder took his text from Luke 12·48 and spoke in part as follows.

"Opportunity spells responsibility There is no privilege that does not at the same time entail some obligation. This privilege enunciated by Christ is not an arbitrary law, but is based on eternal truth and justice. It is simply an application of that universal law of cause and effect. We are accustomed to apply it to our business and politics and the greater the office the greater the responsibility We also learn to apply this law to give in proportion to our goods. We must learn more and more that benefits derived, blessings reaped and privileges enjoyed obligate us to bestow and impart these blessings unto others That is the church debt to Home Missions. It has received much and of it shall much be required.

The Mission Work.

"We often speak of home and foreign missions as if they had nothing in common except the name. As a matter of fact there is no such thing as foreign and home missions in the kingdom of God. The apostles never spoke of them, but simply of missions Jesus did not speake of two fields, but said The field is the world' If we build the fence of home and foreign missions, there is indeed danger of sowing too much on one side and neglecting the other.

"Home mission is in principal the same as foreign mission They have the same aim and goal, the establishment of the kingdom of God The difference in terms applies merely to the plane and methods of work. Who can tell where foreign mission work ceases or where home mission work begins. The work of evangelizing the Indians is as much foreign mission work as the work among the Hindoos and Hottentotts. The establishment of schools and colleges over the world are home mission work in methods and character.

The Fruitful Work.

"The most fruitful and successful home mission is not confined to any single church, body or denomination for the task of esiablishing God's kingdom is too great for any one church or denomination. An international institution which constitutes one of the mightiest forces in the field of home missions is the Y M. C A In all the cities this institution is making its influence felt.

'In answer to what constitutes home missions might be mentioned the work of the Salvation army, work among the imigrants, the city rescue work and the work of deaconesses here and abroad. You ask if mission work pays and I believe we have been fully convinced that it does both at home and abroad, but we have not given enough attention to building churches at home to save some of the wrecks of our cities and in that manner enlarge God's kingdom"

BOTH MUST GO TO OHIO PRISON

Senators Huffman and Andrews Lose Their Appeal.

DECISION IN THE CASES UNANIMOUS

Cuyahoga County Court Affirms a Former Finding.

The Validity of the Convictions Is Believed To Be Settled, as the Supreme Court Affirmed One Case, That of Diegel—The Supreme Court Will Probably Refuse To Review the Cases.

Columbus, O., Nov 18.—State Senators Isaac E. Huffman of Oxford and LaForrest R. Andrews of Ironton will have to serve sentences in the Ohio penitentiary, the former for three years and the latter nine months, for the alleged acceptance of bribes to influence their action on pending legislation, according to an unanimous decision rendered by circuit court of Cuyahoga county, which reviewed the finding of the criminal court of Franklin county, in which the two solons were convicted.

There had been much conjecture as to the probable attitude of the Cuyahoga county circuit court, composed of Justices Louis H Winch, Charles Niman and U. G Marvin. The case was transferred to that court only after it had been assigned by Chief Justice Winch to the Third circuit. Attorneys for the defense objected to the Franklin county circuit court reviewing the case because it had passed on the Diegel case, in which practically the same points were made Prosecutor Turner and Attorney General Hogan objected to the Third circuit because Judge Michael Donnelly was a member. To settle the squabble Judge Winch, chief justice of the circuit courts, appointed himself and his two associates to review the case, which they did Sept 28.

The affirming of the Andrews and Huffman cases by the Cuyahoga county court is looked upon by state's attorneys as settling forever the validity of convictions obtained in the legislative graft cases Two circuit courts have held such convictions were valid and the supreme court has affirmed in one case, that of the state against Diegel.

Attorney General Hogan and Prosecutor Turner are of the opinion that the supreme court will refuse to review the Andrews and Huffman cases.

THE WILSONS GET TO BERMUDA SAFELY

President-Elect Will Not Be Able To Dodge Politics Completely.

Hamilton, Bermuda, Nov. 18.—Woodrow Wilson and his family arrived here shortly before 9 o'clock today on the liner, Bermudian. The party went directly to the cottage which had been engaged at Salt Kettle, across the bay from Hamilton.

Though Governor Wilson announced he would dodge politics on his trip, it was learned today that William Hughes, United States senator-elect from New Jersey, will arrive in Bermuda within a month to confer with Mr Wilson.

Governor Wilson brought with him a number of communications, urging the appointment to a cabinet post of Mayor Carter Harrison, of Chicago.

A widow who is young, rich and pretty is monarch of every bachelor she surveys.

MANY PROBLEMS MUST BE SOLVED

Wilson's Stand on Foreign Policies Is Unknown.

THE PRESENT COURSE MAY BE DISRUPTED

The "Dollar-Diplomacy" Issue Applies Broadly.

It Brings Up the Pressing Latin-American Question, Including the Soothing of Colombia for the Loss of Panama—The Russian Situation Is Another Troublesome Matter for the President-Elect.

Washington, Nov. 18.—What are Woodrow Wilson's ideas as to foreign affairs? That is a question which official Washington, including members of the diplomatic corps, is asking repeatedly now. And strangely enough, nobody seems to know where President-elect Wilson stands as to foreign policies which have been built up under Republican administrations

As the broadest in its application and bearing upon American interests, Mr. Wilson will first have to decide whether he is to indorse and maintain the Republican policy of giving government aid to American capital seeking investments in foreign lands and American producers seeking markets abroad for American goods. This policy, dubbed "dollar diplomacy," has been bombarded again and again by the Democrats.

A more specific question under this phase of foreign relations which President Wilson will have to answer concerns the proposed Chinese loan of $300,000,000. He will have either to commit himself to this government's activity in favor of capital or else he must disavow it and take the United States out of the concert of six nations on the Chinese loans.

Latin-American Problems.

The issue of "dollar diplomacy" also brings up at once the tremendously pressing Latin-American question. The number of governments to be dealt with and their nearness to the United States and the Panama canal make the Latin-American question probably the most imperative of all problems that will confront the incoming administration Events are moving rapidly in Latin-America and bring with them the necessity for the establishment of new precedents upon the part of the government of the United States.

One of the interesting questions which Mr. Wilson will have to solve is the matter of soothing Colombia for the loss of Panama. The Democrats in congress have agitated this matter for the last two years, and accused previous Republican administrations of the blackest of crimes for their treatment of Colombia.

Mr. Wilson is on record as declaring that he would give his sanction to no treaty with Russia which did not guarantee equal treatment of all American citizens, regardless of race or religion, by Russia He will undoubtedly therefore find himself in an unpleasant situation as regards relations with Russia.

REORGANIZATION OF PARTY IS PLANNED

President Taft and Chairman Barnes Hold Conference.

New York, Nov. 18.—President Taft and State Chairman William Barnes, Jr., had a long and hopeful talk regarding the future of the Republican party. The discussion included speculation as to the candidate for the presidency in 1916 and planning for party reorganization, in which Mr. Taft will take part after March 4, 1913. The conference was held at the home of Henry W. Taft, where the president had luncheon.

Mr Barnes later said: "We discussed the general situation and referred to certain plans that are being laid to make the Republican party stronger than ever The candidacy for 1916 was touched upon, of course, but that is a long time ahead"

Being asked if Mr. Taft would be active in the reorganization of the party when he is no longer president, Mr. Barnes said: "Well, I suppose he will. The president is a Republican first, last and all the time, and every good Republican is working to a common end. They are fighting for principle and the fight will go on until we carry it through and put it into effect."

Columbus, Nov. 19.—After a wrangle of three months' duration in which Mayor Karb suspended Chief of Police Charles Carter on a charge of incompetency and appointed Thomas J. O'Neil in his place, and in which the civil service commission, common pleas court and circuit court had ordered the mayor to reinstate him, the supreme court today ruled that O'Neil had no right to the position and that they mayor must reinstate Carter at once.

Carter will receive full pay for the three months' forced vacation, and O'Neil will not be paid for his services.

GUN MEN GUILTY IN FIRST DEGREE

Convicted of Slaying Gambler Herman Rosenthal.

THE JURY IS OUT EXACTLY ONE HOUR

Verdict Regarded as a Blow to Becker's Case.

"Gyp the Blood," "Lefty Louie," "Dago Frank" and "Whitey Lewis" Are the Real Slayers of Man for Whose Death Becker Is Sent to Sing Sing—Death Sentence Is To Come Tomorrow.

New York, Nov. 19—The four gun men, charged with the assassination of Herman Rosenthal on July 16 last, were found guilty of murder in the first degree by a jury in the criminal branch of the supreme court this afternoon The jury was out just one hour, having retired 1:35 and returning at 2:35 o'clock.

At 2:25 the jury notified the court that it had reached a verdict, but Justice Goff could not be found right away.

The defendants, Harry Horowitz, Alias "Gpy the Blood," Louis Rosenberg, alias "Lefty Louie," Frank Cirofici, alias "Dago Frank," and Frank Muller, alias "Whitey Lewis," were taken in the court-room from The Tombs Their faces showed that they realized that the jury's quick decision boded them ill.

Charge Damages Defense.

Those who heard the justice's charge expected a severe verdict. Although maintaining strict legal impartiality he brought out facts from the testimony which were damaging to the defense.

The verdict against the men was a severe blow to the case of ex-Police Lieutenant Charles Becker, whose hopes of a new trial were based on a possible acquittal of the gun men. Becker was alleged to have hired the gun men, through Jack Rose, the state's chief witness, to put Rosenthal, the "squealing gambler" out of the way. The verdict against the quartet carries with it a penalty of death in the electric chair.

Attorney Wahle, for the defense, said after the verdict, that he would continue to fight the case and attempt to get a new trial.

Justice Goff announced that the four gun men would be sentenced tomorrow at 10:30 a. m.

CASH REGISTER PEOPLE CALLED

Dayton Concern Charged with Being a Trust.

MAINTAINS SECRET SERVICE SYSTEM

Which Government Alleges Is Law Violation.

Officers of Gem City Concern Called to Cincinnati Today To Answer Charges—Hearing in Suit To Dissolve the Steel Trust Is Taken Up in Washington—Attorney for the Trust Files Objections.

Cincinnati, Nov. 19.—Officers of the National Cash Register company, of Dayton, today were called into the United States court here to face charges of violation of the Sherman anti-trust law. The allegations of the government tell a story of an attempt on the part of the National to strangle competition, through the maintenance of one of the most complete secret services ever known in the business world.

A "graveyard," showing the cash registers and similar commercial devices, which rival companies attempted to make, is maintained by the National, it is alleged, to frighten competitors.

It is asserted that, in this "graveyard," are kept only the machines made by companies that failed. Nearly a ton of the records of the company were brought here to be used in the trial. The government plans to require the company to produce records of expenditures for twenty-one years.

Thirty officers of the concern are here for the trial. An entire floor of the Sinton hotel, owned by a brother of President Taft, has been reserved for the officials and their clerks.

Plead Not Guilty.

All the defendants pleaded not guilty.

W. F. Cummings, salesmanager for the National Cash Register company, indicted with twenty-nine other officers, is ill in his home in Brooklyn and could not be present at the trial The trial was begun without him. Attorney Lawrence Maxwell entered a plea of not guilty for Cummings.

The men are accused of conspiracy in restraint of trade under the criminal section of the Sherman law.

Steel Trust Hearing.

Washington, Nov 19.—The hearing today in the government's suit to dissolve the United States Steeel corporation was begun with the testimony of Dr. Francis Walker, deputy commissioner of corporations The government was represented by Jacob M Dickinson and Henry A. Colton, of the department of justice.

R. V. Lindabury, C A. Severance and D. A. Reed represented the Steel corporation

Dr. Walker said he had studied industrial conditions in Germany, paying particular attention to coal and iron combinations in that country for more than a year. After commenting caustically on the length of time it has taken the bureau of corporations to investigate the steel trust, Attorney Linabury objected to each of thirty-four tables of prices submitted by the government.

Dr. Walker, in submitting the tables, explained that all prices on iron ore, steel and iron products had been obtained from the reports of the American Iron & Steel association, or a trade periodical known as the Iron Age

"I object to each one of these tables," said Mr Lindabury, "on the ground that they are based on hearsay evidence and are irrelevant, incompetent, immaterial and, I might add, impertinent."

Shortly before this objection the steeel trust attorney said:

"If this investigation was begun in 1905 and the tables are not completed yet, when might we hope for the end?"

Attorney Dickinson made an argument in favor of the admission of the tables as evidence.

SHOOTS SIX AND TAKES OWN LIFE

A Burglar Suspect Uses Pistol With Deadly Effect.

THREE ARE DEAD AND FOUR MORE MAY DIE

Shooting Grows Out of Attempt To Explain Robberies.

A Private Detective, a City Sleuth, a Waiter and the Proprietor of the New York Hotel, Where the Shooting Occurs, Are Badly Wounded. Desperado Kills His Girl Companion Before Killing Himself.

New York, Nov. 19.—The death list resulting from the battle fought late last night at the Elsmere hotel, between detectives and Henry Vogel, was increased to three today when Detective John Allen died of his injuries.

It was stated at the hospital that Martin Fay, a city detective, and Louis Mondscheim, proprietor of the hotel, would probably die before night. The other dead were Vogel, who shot himself when he saw capture was inevitable, and his woman companion, known as "Lottie," whom Vogel shot to death before he turned his weapon upon himself.

Two others less seriously wounded were Luigi Garardi, a house detective, and William Butler, a waiter at the hotel.

The police have two steamer trunks, a valise, a dress suit case and another, which was taken by Vogel and the woman at the Elsmere hotel.

Coroner Healy, of the Bronx, said he was of the opinion the luggage would be found today and the authorities expected that it would reveal the secret of many big robberies in this city which have baffled the police.

The causes which led to last night's battle date back two months when many wealthy families residing on the West Side were robbed by a dishonest servant Early this month detectives arrested an eighteen-year-old servant girl, who gave the name of Sophie Beckendorf She was indicted and confessed, charging Vogel with being a modern Fagin and revealing his methods.

Trains Girls To Steal.

According to the girl, Vogel trained young servant girls to steal and acted as their "fence," receiving their loot. Vogel enjoyed a profitable business, securing places for servant girls, then receiving the plunder which the girls stole from the houses where they were employed, the police claim

After getting their evidence against Vogel, the police started upon his trail. Allen and Louisi were given the job of running Vogel down They picked up the trail of Vogel and followed him. They met Detective Fay and invited him to "get in" on the arrest

Vogel went to the Elsmere hotel and registered He and "Lottie" were assigned to a room on the third floor When the detectives got to the Elsmere hotel they talked to the proprietor about the guests that had registered, and, after getting descriptions, decided that the pair in the third floor were the couple they were after They went to the room and burst in.

Vogel at first made no protest and, upon being searched, no weapon was found upon him. He asked permission to put on another shirt and, as he passed the bed, he quickly placed his hand beneath the pillow and drew forth an automatic pistol.

Turning the weapon upon the raiders, Vogel opened a fierce fusillade After he had shot down the detectives and their companions he turned the gun on the woman, then on himself.

The police found a second pistol under the mattress.

Residents of Bermuda Honor President-Elect of United States.

Hamilton, Bermuda, Nov. 19.—President-elect Wilson and his family stepped off the steamship Bermudian here, and the very first thing that happened to Mr. Wilson seeking a rest was an address of welcome.

On the dock to meet the Wilson party was Mayor Wainwright, who bore a copy of an illuminated address of welcome prepared by the corporation of the city of Hamilton, and told Mr. Wilson how proud Bermuda was to welcome him. There was a big crowd on the dock and they cheered lustily as Mr. Wilson said that he hoped nothing would disturb the cordiality between Bermuda and the United States while he was president.

Then Mr. Wilson sent Lieutenant Lawrence, his aid-de-camp, to thank the chamber of commerce for their welcome, and drove to a hotel through streets gay with bunting flung out from all the houses in his honor. It was a triumphant procession for the party, for they were cheered all along the way.

As soon as he got to the hotel, the president-elect found all sorts of proposals waiting him from the Bermudians, who want to be sure that he has a good time on the island.

TRAIN HELD UP IN IOWA TODAY

Bandits Board Limited Near Town of Ottumwa.

FOUR PASSENGERS AND TWO OF CREW ROBBED

Men Stand on Platform and Prevent an Alarm.

The Southwestern Limited on the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul Is Boarded by Masked Men—They Secure About $350—Police Notified at Ottumwa and Five Suspects Are Now Under Arrest.

Ottumwa, Ia., Nov. 19.—The southwestern limited on the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul railroad was held up by masked men early today between Mystic, Iowa, and this city.

The bandits boarded the train at Mystic, and began their operations almost immediately after the train left that place. They robbed four passengers and the Pullman conductor and porter and forced the other passengers to hold their hands above their heads until they reached this city where the robbers dashed from the train.

The police were immediately notified and within a few hours five suspects were arrested.

The robbers secured about $350. Two of the passengers, who were robbed here are:

A. Young and J. G Sook, enroute from the Pacific coast to Chicago.

The highwaymen visited only two coaches in the train. They remained on the platform connecting the two cars with the forward cars preventing the pasosngers in the forward coaches from being notified.

The southwest limited does not carry a mail or express car and the robbers confined their attention to the passengers.

MOTHER KILLED BY VICE AGENT

Woman Slain in Chicago Hotel Last Week.

IS SEARCHING FOR MISSING DAUGHTER

Girl Is Lured Away from Home in Michigan.

The Dead Woman Is Believed To Be Mrs. Martha Fosdick—Startling Story of Her Fruitless Search for Daughter and Her Resulting Violent Death Is Told Police Today by Unknown Parties.

Chicago, Nov. 19.—The story of a missing girl and the search for her by her mother is intertwined in the murder mystery at the Saratoga hotel here, according to information that reached the police through strange channels today.

That the woman, who was slain by a blow on the head with a heavy riveting hammer, was the mother of the girl; that she had come to Chicago to seek her and that she was slain by denizens of the underworld is the story that was told.

The information was brought to Miss Kate J. Adams, former secretary to Police Chief Steward and now engaged in rescue work among fallen women. Just who the informers are is unknown, and some of the details of the story have been withheld by the police, but detectives today were sent out to investigate, when the information was given Captain Halpin, chief of detectives.

The girl was lured from her home in Michigan six months ago. She was brought to Chicago and there disappeared. She had become a victim of the traffickers in girls. Her mother, after vainly trying to find her through letters and inquiries, determined to come to Chicago to look for her.

Those interested in the girl's disappearance became alarmed. They planned to dispose of the woman. She was lured to the Saratoga hotel in the belief that she would meet her daughter there. Instead she was struck with the hammer, lay unconscious for two days and died.

The woman's home was in a small Michigan town near Detroit. The name of the girl who disappeared is known to Miss Adams and to Captain of Detectives Halpin. They have communicated with the authorities in the girl's former home in an effort to verify the story.

The girl was nineteen years old. She was taken to the vice district and held in a resort there. The mother learned of her daughter's fate after she reached Chicago. She wandered through the district seeking the girl. At the door of each closed resort she knocked and asked whether any one had seen her daughter. Clara was the name by which the girl was known. Many had seen her and told the mother so.

Finally the woman learned the name of the man with whom the girl left Michigan. Hopeless of doing more through her own efforts, the woman determined to take the case to the United States officials. It was then, it is said, that the men who had been instrumental in the girl's fate became alarmed and determined to dispose of the mother.

Mrs. Martha Fosdick is believed to be the name of the murdered woman. The police today admitted this was the name of the woman said to have been seeking her daughter Clara in the resort district here. They refused to make public the name of the Michigan town in which the woman lived, but they have asked both the Detroit police and the authorities in the town itself to help trace the story.

CARRIES INFERNAL MACHINE TO POLICE

Man with Monkey-Head Mask Overpowered in Los Angeles.

Los Angeles, Cal., Nov. 19.—A man, wearing a mask shaped like a monkey's head, entered the Central police station here shortly after noon today. He carried a box, which he declared was an infernal machine, and declared he would explode it if molested.

Pretending to humor him, the police finally succeeded, by strategy, in overpowering him, and clubbing him into submission. An investigation disclosed the fact that the box contained 100 sticks of dynamite.

The man has not been identified, and has given no reason for his action.

ATTORNEY GENERAL RENDERS DECISION

The Police and Firemen Will Be Without Pay.

City Solicitor Fred W. Warner has received an opinion from Attorney General T S. Hogan to the effect that Marion police and firemen can not draw their salaries until the next semi-annual appropriation is made the first Monday in January.

"The cops and firemen won't have any Christmas money this year," said the city solicitor this afternoon.

The municipal employes drew their pay, November 15, and, under the attorney general's ruling, they can not now draw further pay, because they have no appropriation, until the council passes the semi-annual appropriation ordinance.

ANNUAL HEARING WILL BE HELD MONDAY

Priorities of Claims in C., M. & B. Matter Is To Be Determined by Master Commissioner Eymon. The Legal Propositions Are To Be Argued by Attorneys.

Thursday, Master Commissioner James H. Eymon, of the Columbus, Marion & Bucyrus Railroad company, expected to file his report, but a controversy arose at the eleventh hour over the priorities of claims and Commissioner Eymon decided to hold another hearing at the courthouse, Monday morning at 10 o'clock.

At this hearing the legal proposition of the priorities of the claims will be argued. The question, now to be determined, is whether, under the mortgage, John G. Webb, builder and former president of the road, has any claim at all, or whether his claim should rank next to the claim of Receiver George Wyland and Fred E. Guthery, or whether his claim should be prorated with that of the bondholders, represented by the Troy Trust company, of Troy, New York.

The court has already ruled that the receivers' claim of $10,000 is prior to all others. Webb's claim, with interest, amounts to about $108,000, and the claim of the bondholders is something like $580,000.

Webb's claim is often a claim of $65,000 or $70,000, because he lacked that sum in having the road completed Webb asserts that he paid the road's first coupons of $70,000. If his claim is held as prior to that of the bondholders it will mean a heavy loss to the bondholders, because the road is not worth anything like the amount of its bonded debt.

Following the filing of Master Commissioner Eymon's report and its approval, Judge Daniel Bahat, of Crestline, will appoint appraisers, and the property will be sold.

At Monday's hearing, Fisher & Gallinger, of Bucyrus, and J. D. Livingstone, of Troy, New York, will represent the bondholders, and Attorneys D. E. Crissinger and George B. Scofield will appear as counsel for the receivers. It is not known who will represent Mr. Webb.

THE PEOPLE'S INAUGURAL.

The "con." talk of Governor-elect Cox about the purely democratic character of his inaugural, will tickle the gullibility of the gullibles, but will not fool anybody who knows anything about such things. Inaugural ceremonies have been open to the public, and all of the public, since inaugurals began, and the inaugural receptions, which are social bores, more or less have been held in the capitol and the public has always had its whirl Men in soft shirts and soft hats and street clothes, even ill-fitting ones, have been welcome and cordially greeted, but most of the chief figures in that dreary function have never felt called upon to use the practice for "conning" the easily "conned" public. But the governor-elect is going to have everybody at the inaugural ball. Assuming that everybody will care to go, which will be the most unlikely thing in the world, all the public halls in Columbus should be engaged. Democrats and Republicans can waltz together, the plain peepul and the plutocrats may do the turkey trot, and Progressives and Stand-patters may exhibit the grizzly bear hug.

If this democratic, social equality, supreme fraternizing is the conception of Bill Finley, we don't understand why his genius has not mixed a bit of state-craft. Let appointments be made the favors for the cotillion. Let's get back to the good old public hops of Kenton, where everybody is invited, and sell the dances at a nickel a couple. It will be equal to a legislative reunion at Cedar Point.

The next dance will be a quadrille. "One more couple, please, to fill this set" Verily, the people have come into their own. The people do rule, an may dance at the inaugural. We hail the restoration, and acclaim Cox and Finley.

Hooray for balderdash!

THE PRESIDENT'S SPEECH.

President Taft's after-dinner address in New York, Saturday night, revealed the admirable temper and breadth of the man, and gives a helpful reflex of the feelings of a public servant sustained by conscience amid the unthinking lashing of ugly tongues. The president is serene, good-humored, abiding in his faith, and confident of the future verdict, though human enough to frankly say that one prefers his meed of appreciation and approval while he yet lives.

President Taft's reluctant recommendation for one change to bring about a closer touch between the executive and legislative branches of the government, without either infringing on the rights of the other—reluctant because the president is reverent of the order under which we have wrought so well—is worth immediate and unanimous approval.

The recommendation is to have cabinet members entitled by virtue of their office to seats in congress. It would be a vast improvement. It has been proposed before, twice in our history, to do this, and to give the cabinet heads seats in both the house and senate, with a right to enter into the discussions in either house. As the president says, this would keep congress better informed as to the actual conditions in the departments of government, it would spur the department chiefs to great efficiency and fuller understanding, and incline to raise the standard of cabinet officials, as well as hold congressmen to well-informed debate on department matters. More important still, it would put the administration in a position to rightfully influence legislation as is expected of it at the hands of the people who supported it at the polls.

MR. TAFT FOR SUPREME BENCH.

Theer will be general approval of the suggestion that President Wilson appoint Mr Taft to the supreme bench We do not know the origin of the suggestion, perhaps it is only the utterance of one of the pleasing thoughts in politics, but it would prove a great benefit to the country, and show a fine example of politics rising above partisanship President Taft has himself established the precedent, in naming Lurton and Lamar as justices of the supreme court, and emphasized his own breadth in elevating Judge White to the position of chief justice. These examples of non-partisanship had their share in contributing to the election of Mr Wilson, for the appointment of Democrats lost the president many Republican supporters, without attracting a like number of Democrats in their stead. But the appointment of Mr. Taft by his successor would appeal to the nation for another reason. He is especially fitted for the supreme bench. His introduction to public life was in able service on the bench He is of the judicial type His wide experience in the cabinet, governing the Philippines and as president has given him a breadth of vision that no other American possesses. More, he is of unalterable courage and unquestioned honesty. It strikes us that the wide-spread esteem of President Taft, more freely uttered since the election than ever before, would be strikingly answered by appointing him to the supreme bench, and it would be the ideal place for an ex-president of Mr. Taft's type to end his country's service.

"A Democratic legislature proposed a new constitution for Ohio," says the Cleveland Plain Dealer, "a Democratic convention drew the constitution; a Democratic legislature will write it into the statutes." It is probably so well known that the Plain Dealer did not feel that it was necessary to point out, also, the fact that it and the other Democratic papers of the state are almost paralyzed with fear over how the Democratic legislature will write the constitution into the statutes. And, considering the constitution, and the forces which wrote it and are at present behind it, we can't seriously blame the Democratic papers for their fears.

As you say, Mr. Wilson, what a glorious old world this would be if the office, in every case, hunted the man.

A Missouri man and woman have been married to each other for the third time. If perseverance is half so commendable as the old school reader used to hold out, we will have to hand the credit to them.

The way the Rev. Herbert S. Bigelow let go of that house speakership proposition clearly indicates that he realizes that there is a difference between working off a confidence game on a political party and an indifferent people.

BELATED TRIBUTE TO TAFT.

The New York American, one of the Hearst papers, publishes the following tribute to President Taft:

"To William Howard Taft history will be kinder than the times in which he lived.

"He was not framed for a great executive That fine judicial mind and temper balancing the even sides of great questions was prejudicial to swift decision and vigorous execution. He would have made an ideal justice of the supreme court of the United States. And to this high and serener station all his desires and ambitions moved—rather than to the presidency.

"Theodore Roosevelt and another influence led his unwilling feet to the White House at a time when they might have carried him to the bench

"But William Howard Taft is an honest, great-hearted man and an unselfish lover of his country. And this meed of praise—with the responsibility for some great measures which will surely live—must be the present epitath upon a political career which is evidently closed.

"He has occupied for four years the highest office in the world. And he leaves it without a stain."

Passing over the fact that it was criminal for the American, holding the views above expressed, to pursue the course it did during the late campaign, we wish to dispute the assertion that Mr. Taft has failed as an executive. In spite of the fact that his predecessor conspired with others against him before he even entered upon his duties as president, despite the fact that he was surrounded by disloyal subordinates inherited from the preceding administration, Judge Taft distinctly "made good" as an executive. He improved the government service and decreased its cost in every department. He handled the great problems, which came to him, with firmness and with courage. He kept peace with all nations and sacrificed neither honor nor prestige as the price of peace He did not fail as an executive; he failed only as a politician, using that word in the perverted sense, which has come to general acceptance. He refused to dragoon congressmen into passing the measures he recommended, he refused to use the patronage of his office to buy or influence their votes, he refused to use the secret service to spy upon their private lives and use the information so gained to blackmail them into supporting his policies or driving them from office. He refused to jocky with the correspondents to secure their favor, or to yield to the demands of the great newspapers for special tariff and mail advantages. He refused to campaign for popularity or to boast through the public press of the faithful discharge of each day's duties. All these things are distasteful and repugnant to him, and if he had known that to omit to do them was to end his public career, he would have continued just the same upon his course. In fact, he did know the danger, but he held that it was more important to him to live up to his own idea of what was right and what best accorded with his responsibility to the people, than to be reelected.

We have not a doubt that, personally, while he greatly desired a vote of confidence and endorsement, now that the people have spoken, he is greatly relieved and happy in the prospect of freedom from the awful responsibilities of the presidency His defeat has not, could not, embitter him. He has no sense of humiliation. He feels that he was right and he can afford to leave his vindication to history and the results.

It would be hard to imagine a better, more convincing argument for a single presidential term of six years than that offered by President Taft before the Lotus club, of New York, Saturday night. His arguments for the right of cabinet members to sit in congress and for provision for ex-presidents were equally good. And too much can not be said in the way of praise for his rebuke of those who make it a business to gain cheap notoriety by casting insult and outrage upon whoever may be, at the time, the chief executive of the nation.

Eggs are selling in New York at seventy-two cents a dozen. It is evident the produce people aren't next to that promise made by Governor Wilson to reduce the cost of living

Still, Colonel Bryan must not become chesty over the result. He nominated Mr. Wilson, it must be admitted, but it was the other colonel who elected him.

Boss Bill Flinn and certain other political porchclimbers associated with him during the recent campaign simply can not get away from the thought that they made a mistake by not using their jimmies oftener.

The Texans are cultivating bats to exterminate mosquitoes. Wonder what they will be cultivating ten years hence down in the Lone Star state to exterminate the bats

It develops that Joseph Pulitzer left an estate of $18,000,000. The great editor came to this country penniless, he was the beneficiary of no privilege that is not open to every other youth battling with poverty, and knew no government favoritism of any kind. He was ever writing against privilege and favoritism, ever writing for what he called a chance for the plain people, yet he himself was a striking example of the open offer of American opportunity. Mr Pulitzer had capacity and industry, and the $18,000,000 estate testifies to their reward

No doubt it is a matter for regret on the part of some of the Democratic patriots that the federal pie-counter is not run after the manner of those restaurants where every fellow helps himself.

It is possible, also, that this demand for immediate revision of the tariff may, in some quarters, represent merely a desire to know the worst at the earliest possible moment.

Governor Wilson no doubt realizes that it is not what is said of a man when he takes the presidential chair which counts, but rather the esteem in which he is held after he leaves it.

When a man is compelled to give as many opinions as Attorney General Hogan does, he can not always be absolutely consistent Anyway, they are only opinions; the court has the last guess.

It's hardly the square thing to ask Mr. Wilson to be satisfied with one term. Four years is a mighty short time in which to marry off three daughters.

It doesn't matter how many of our Democratic friends labor under the delusion that it was Colonel Bryan, who was elected president, so long as the colonel himself doesn't suffer from a hallucination of that kind.

Anyway, Mr Taft hasn't shown the slighest inclination to shoot half tame lions at two dollars a word.

REVIVAL OF DECENCY NEEDED.

We should like to think that it was sympathy with an unfortunate young woman, or detestation for the crime she is charged with and the immorality which led up to it, which caused hundreds of Columbus men and women to fight among themselves as they sought to force their way into the court-room where Cecilia Farley was battling for her life. But it was none of these. It was merely vulgar, shameful curiosity; the same morbid craving for the horrible and the salacious which drew the rabble to the vicinity of the guillotine, that fills the divorce courts with their motley gathering of the nasty-minded; the same that demands of the newspapers that they shall pander to pruriency—a demand which the best papers can only partially evade or ignore in the rivalry of an unlicensed, unregulated press.

We are told that a woman, whose arm was broken in the crush, worked her way out, had the injured member set and bandaged, and then, determined to lose no morsel of the delectable tale of lust, fought her way back inside the court-room.

There were women present who came bringing their lunches and carrying their babes to breathe all day in helpless discomfort the vitiated air of the reeking court-room.

Is it not sickening to think on spectacles such as these and to realize what they evidence? Is this the point we have reached in 2,000 years of Christian civilization, when men will leave the work clamoring for their hands and women abandon their homes and children to participate at second hand in liaison and crime like this?

We protest against it. The interests of justice do not demand the presence at a trial, such as this, of a horde of mental scavengers. The things there recited would not be tolerated in a theater, would not be permitted in church or class-room. As good taste and a sense of decency do not move to cure the evil, the law should do so. Such trials should be held "in chambers" with witnesses and attendants permitted in such numbers only as to protect the rights of all parties and prevent the evil of secret trials. And we would not oppose a reasonable restriction upon the character of the reports of such hearing carried in the press. Let us have a revival of decency.

THE LITTLE COLLEGES.

Very few persons, comparatively speaking, would have known that Ohio university, at Athens, had been put in the second class by the national buerau of education, if President Alston Ellis had not emitted such a loud howl about it. Dr. Ellis resorts to sarcasm and vituperation and prints the result. It seems that the doctor files his protest in the wrong place when he goes to the newspapers. He should have made his complaint of injustice to the bureau and asked for a rerating. But we doubt if the matter would have had any serious effect upon the school he heads. The small colleges are doing good work. They are attended usually by earnest young men and women who are pursuing their studies with serious purpose and at the cost of untold sacrifices on the part of themselves and their families. They have no time and no money for the fripperies of big universities These young men and women give their own rating to the schools they attend. Given the chance for an education, they go preferably where the facilities are ample, the faculty adequate and devoted, the surroundings not distracting and the living cheap. Good men are coming out of the little colleges and they will themselves be the best answer to any criticism. The great universities are doing well, of course, and their diplomas give prestige of a sort. But the little schools take high rank on their finished product.

The Rev. Herbert Bigelow might never have discovered that he didn't want to be speaker of the house had he not had the able assistance of Governor-elect James M. Cox.

It's hardly giving the pie-counter crowd a square deal for Governor Wilson to sail away to the Bermudas at this time.

It would be no more than right for the newspapers to heed Mr. Bigelow's request to drop the "Rev." from his name, not necessarily for the sake of Mr. Bigelow, but rather for the church.

GROWING DEMAND FOR BIGNESS.

[New York World.]

The Interstate Commerce Commission has been called to hear a controversy between railway baggage-men and the makers and the users of big trunks. The railway managers wish to restrict the size of trunks carried as baggage. The trunk-makers, supported by theatrical men and commercial travlers, are opposed.

It is the familiar story of expanding magnitudes We make our freight cars so big the rails won't sustain them. We put down bigger rails and the roadbed gives way. We build ships so big they can not find dock room. We build docks so big the harbors are blocked. We make warships so formidable no gun can pierce them. Then we make guns so heavy no warship can carry them. The folly rests not upon man alone. Women are equally crazy for size. They wear hats bigger round than their skirts, and brace them with pins bigger than the hats.

Everything increases in size except apartments and beesteaks. One reason why traveling men wish larger room for their trunks on railways is because they can not store them at home. Women wish half a baggage car to hold a hat-box. In the end we may have to construct railways with a 10-foot gauge and equip them with double-deck cars.

AFTER THE TRUSTS.

[Baltimore American.]

Legitimate industry thoroughly understands the course of President Taft in his use of the Sherman anti-trust law for the correction of the evils of wrongful enterprise. So that the continued activity of the president and his attorney General in pushing to a conclusion cases that are now pending and urging decisions upon those which are within the cognisance of the supreme court has no terrifying effect upon the general business of the country. It does show, however, that Mr. Taft is the protector of the rightful functions of trade and manufacture and that he is applying the law sanely and without passion, according to the merits of individual cases.

President-elect Wilson has spoken a reassuring word to the effect that honest business need have no fears from him. It would be difficult to find in this statement any element of novelty as honest business has been without fear ever since William Howard Taft has been in the White House. The distinction is that Mr. Taft has a policy and he has a law with which to put that policy into effect, and he has applied the law and obtained results, and the country knows just where he stands with regard to trust activities. It is hoped the country can feel as sure of as wise and conservative an attitude on the part of the incoming administration.

WELCOME Z. COURT IS GIVEN SENTENCE

Sentence Is Suspended After Bond of $500 Is Given.

FOSTER PARENTS OF COURT ARE SECURITY

A Motion Is Made for a New Trial for George W. England—The Usual Grounds of Error Are Set Forth—Matter of Clark Against Chicago & Erie Company.

Welcome Z. Court, arrested at Rochester, Indiana, after being indicted by the May grand jury for nonsupport of a three-year-old son, appeared before Judge William E. Scofield, shortly before noon Tuesday He was accompanied by Grant E. Mouser, his lawyer.

Waiving the reading of the indictment, Court pleaded guilty to the charge and was given a year's sentence in the Ohio penitentiary, but the sentence was suspended upon him furnishing $500 bond to pay the child's mother $10 a month for his maintenance. The bond was furnished by Court's foster parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. S. Cluff, residing near Likens.

Court said that he was now a mechanical engineer, with headquarters in Chicago. He is about thirty years old.

Tuesday morning, Attorney Louis E. Myers, representing George W. England, convicted on a charge of wronging his sixteen-year-old daughter, Elizabeth, filed a motion for a new trial. The usual grounds of error are set up.

In the suit of John H. Clark, administrator of the estate of Frederica Miller, deceased, against the Chicago & Erie Railroad company, the plaintiff has filed a reply to the answer of the defendant company. He sets up a general denial of the allegations made in the answer.

Martin L. Hauck, fifty-four years old, father of Harry Hauck, who was tried for the murder of Patrolman Jerome Hochstetter and escaped punishment by the jury disagreeing, has brought an action for $5,000 damages against the city for alleged false imprisonment.

In his petition, filed by DeGolley & DeGolley, Hauck, the father, claims he was arrested and held for a period of seven days without warrant and compelled to stay in a filthy cell without care, proper food or comfortable resting place. He says the cell was infested with bed bugs, body lice and other vermin, and that by reason of "the inhuman cruelties suffered by him," he was unable to follow his occupation as a shoemaker for six months, and is still enfeebled.

Hauck says he was arrested September 6, 1910. That was before his son's trial for the murder of Hofstetter, who was killed in the Erie yards when seeking hold-up men.

Harry Hauck is now being sought by the federal authorities as a deserter from the United States navy.

Leave for Fred E. Guthery to file an answer and cross-petition instanter, has been granted in the suit of Ansie S. Brown against the Ohio Farmers' Insurance company. Leave for the plaintiff to reply by November 30 was granted at the same time.

Wednesday, George W. England, convicted of wronging his own daughter, Elizabeth, was arraigned for sentence. He had nothing to say, except that what he told on the witness stand was the truth—that his daughter had forced him. He looked haggard and worn.

Judge Scofield briefly mentioned the unpleasantness of having to sentence a man to the penitentiary, and then pronounced his sentence of three years in the Ohio penitentiary. Attorney Louis Myers, who defended England, was allowed $35 counsel fee.

England was taken to prison by Sheriff John G. Stark, Thursday. The penalty for his crime is from one to ten years.

A temporary injunction restraining Charles H. Hofstetter and the city of Marion from connecting a sewer from the property of Hofstetter on east Center street with a small sewer running through an alley west from Grove street, was granted by Judge W. E. Scofield, Wednesday upon the application of William Parratt, owner of a property located on Uhler avenue.

In his petition for a temporary injunction, Parratt, through DeGolley & DeGolley, sets up that the sewer in the alley was especially constructed for the use of five lots and parcels of ground extending from Reed avenue east to the alley near Parratt's home. He claims that the alley sewer is far too small to admit of any other connections, and if Hofstetter is allowed to connect with it, the public health and the health of the Parratts will be endangered. He says that, by the regular sewer system, there is now located through Center street a short and convenient distance from the Hofstetter premises, a large and ample sewer, especially suitable for Hofstetter's purposes.

The city was enjoined because, Parratt claimed, the city solicitor refused to apply for an order of injunction in the matter when requested to do so, and feared that the city's corporate powers would be abused.

Wednesday, Judge W. E. Scofield, granted a decree of divorce to Addie S. Fetter from her husband, Frank V. Fetter, a former policeman. He heard the evidence several weeks ago, the defendant contesting. Mrs. Fetter was awarded a divorce on the ground of gross neglect.

In the suit of French Crow, administrator of the estate of Margaret Ruth, deceased, against Elizabeth C. Boor and others, an action wherein the administrator sought the court's opinion as to the distribution of about $3,000 in his possession, Judge W. E Scofield, Wednesday, decided that he should distribute the funds in his hands to the heirs of Margaret Ruth to the exclusion of the heirs-at-law and legal representatives of Conrad Ruth, her deceased husband The court also ordered that the costs be paid from funds in the administrator's hands.

Margaret Ruth's heirs to whom Administrator Crow, will now distribute the money are.

Margaret Lill, of Marion, one-third; Elizabeth C. Boor, of Wooster, one-third, and Dr. J. W. Lehr and Flora O. Ruth, of Wooster, one-sixth each.

In his application for an order of distribution, Administrator Crow said that he was unable to determine, with safety, to whom to distribute the funds in his hands for the reason that the heirs-at-law, of whom there were many, claimed to be entitled to all the funds in his possession.

Wednesday morning, Judge Scofield overruled the plaintiff's demurrer to the defendant's answer in the suit of the Cleveland, Cincinnati, Chicago & St. Louis Railway company against Simon E. DeWolfe. This is an action to recover for a carload of feed delivered to him by the railroad company.

Wednesday Judge Scofield found in favor of Hugh H. Kelly, a bankrupt grocer, in the action of the Cantwell Hardware company, of Kenton, against Oscar J. Lusch, trustee-in-bankruptcy. He at the same time dismissed the petitions of the Cantwell company and Max Blumberg, manager of the Marion Chatel Loan company, both of whom sought to collect claims against Kelly's homestead interest allowed by the bankrupt court, alleging Kelly had given orders against it. He also ordered Trustee Lusch to pay the money in his hands to Kelly, the bankrupt, after paying the costs of the proceedings.

In the suit of Anna L. Hollyday, administrator of the estate of George Hollyday, deceased, against Philip Malo, the defendant's demurrer to the petition has been overruled. This is an action to recover alleged wages due the decedent.

In the suit to marshal liens of George W. Seiter against Emily C. Mayfield and others, a motion to reform the defendant's answer has been overruled.

The petit jury has been excused until next Monday, when the damage suit of Anna Wilson against the Ohio & Western Lime company will be tried.

The cause of Alfred T. Tallman against D. H Beaver and others was set down for trial Thursday, but was settled out of court. This was an action wherein the plaintiff sought to recover $1,018.16 judgment for alleged violation of a contract, in which the plaintiff leased a sorrel racing mare, known as Mildred D. for the season of 1899. Tallman was to handle the mare and get one-fourth of her winnings.

The trial of the suit of Joseph E. Shetterly against Henry Strelitz, receiver, to set aside a judgment, was to have been held Friday, but the cause has been taken out of assignment because of the death of a relative of one of the attorneys.

In addition to the damage suit of Wilson against the Ohio & Western company set down for Monday of next week, the following other causes have been assigned:

Tuesday, November 26—Clark, administrator, against the Chicago & Erie Railroad company.

Wednesday, November 27—Ankeny against Ankeny.

Friday, November 29—Gorenflo against Gorenflo.

IDENTIFIED BY HER CLOTHING

Woman Murdered in Chicago Is from Queen City.

POLICE NOW SEEK FOR THE MURDERER

They Have Several Clews To the Man's Identity.

The Victim of Murder in the Saratoga Hotel Is Mrs. Emma Kraft. She Is Known To Have Been Infatuated with a Man and Police Are Now Seeking Him—The Other Theories Are Dropped.

Chicago, Nov. 20.—With the identification today of the victim of the Saratoga hotel murder mystery as Mrs. Emma Kraft, of Cincinnati, the police gave their whole attention to an effort to locate the murderer. A number of clews as to the man's identity were given the police here by the police in Cincinnati and a search of the city for a man answering the description of the person sought began. That robbery was the motive for the murder is the belief of the detectives.

The police were advised today that Mrs. Fosdick, seeking her daughter who had been lured from their home in a small town in Michigan, had been found. The woman and her daughter are said to be together in Indianoplis. It was thought yesterday that the murdered woman might be Mrs. Fosdick.

Identified by Clothing.

Cincinnati, Nov. 20.—Partial identification of the victim of the Saratoga hotel murder in Chicago as Mrs. Emma Kraft, was made by the police here today. The identification was made from the clothing of the woman, which had been sent to detectives here.

Mrs. Kraft is said to have been the owner of a grocery store at No. 1052 Marshall avenue, Cincinnati.

The identification was made by a niece of the woman, Mrs. Anna Kloker and her daughter, Florence Kloker. Clothes found in the room of the hotel in which the woman met her death furnished the means of identification.

The shoes, and coat of the woman bore the marks of Cincinnati dealers and two umbrellas, found in the room, also were stamped with the name of a Cincinnati firm. They were forwarded to this city.

A telegram telling of the identification was sent to Captain Halpin, of the Chicago detective department. The police believe the identification is positive.

The police are seeking the man with whom Mrs. Kraft is said to have been infatuated. He disappeared at the same time as Mrs. Kraft. Mrs. Kloker, who identified the woman's clothing, will go to Chicago at once to identify the body.

Stricken Suddenly.

Dr. F. K. Baldwin suffered an attack of gravel, the fourth of the kind, Monday afternoon, while passing the armory on Center street. He suffered terrible pain, but with the assistance of a youth he tried to reach his home. PYTHIANS MEET FOR COUNTY CONVENTION

Four Hundred Knights Gather at Castle Hall.

GRAND CHANCELLOR COMMANDER HERE

Makes Address as Does Also Dr. W. A. King—Reports by Representatives of Various Pythian Bodies in the County—Caledonia Sends Banner Delegation to Meeting.

Grand Chancellor Commander James H. Walker, of Cleveland, addressed 400 Pythian knights at the annual convention of Knights of Pythias in the castle haH of Marion Lodge, No. 402, Knights of Pythias, Thursday night.

Chancellor Walker was given a hearty greeting when he was introduced by County Deputy Charles H Conley, following the street parade, in which more than 300 participated.

At the outset of his address, Chancellor Walker commented on the fact that Marion county, since the last report, had sustained a net loss in membership of two This, he said, was very unusual, but he did not depricate conditions here on that account.

"Membership isn't everything to a lodge," Mr. Walker said. "It is the caliber of your membership. While you have sustained a net loss of two members since the last report, you must remember that you have contributed your share to the support of the 300 children in our home in Springfield. And that's the grandest work of our order—this caring for the children of our brothers' dead."

The Springfield Home.

The grand chancellor commander spoke at some length about having conducted a personal inspection of the Springfield home. His inspection had come without warning to those in charge, he said. "I found the children well kept, well fed and happy," he asserted He then explained that his idea of accomplishment in Pythianism was not so much in the increased membership as in weeding out the undesirables. He said that he had instructed all county deputies to talk to their lodges against fraternal backbiting. "No Pythian knight should talk about a fellow Pythian knight behind his back," he declared.

In conclusion, Chancellor Walker paid Deputy Charles H Conley a very high compliment. He said Mr. Conley was the best deputy in all Ohio, and the knights applauded.

Dr. King Speaks.

Dr. Walter A King, pastor of the Trinity Baptist church, who had opened the convention with prayer, spoke briefly on the general benefits to be derived from lodge fellowship. He said that what one got out of lodge membership depended very largely upon the member himself. He believed that fraternal orders were helpful and useful in their benefits to mankind.

Following a fluet solo by L. B McNeal, who was accompanied on the piano by Jesse Dowler, the representatives of the various county lodges, made short talks Their theme was "What We Are Doing for Pythianism In Our Lodge."

The representatives speaking were J. S. Lyons, Galanthe Lodge, No. 116, Caledonia; N. J. Gast, Durwood Lodge, No. 152, Prospect; Eugene Harmon, Morral Lodge, No. 739, Morral; Ralph Gabler, Whetstone Lodge, No. 718, Waldo; Pearl R. Mears, Walter Scott Lodge, No. 213, La Rue; Lowell H. Smith, Marion Lodge, No. 402, Marion, and Harry S. Elliott, Canby Lodge, No. 51, Marion.

Thirty-One Candidates.

The various reports showed that work in the three ranks of Pythianism is being conferred on thirty-one candidates since the annual inspection began about four weeks ago.

Following a closed session, in which Grand Chancellor Commander Walker instructed the county deputies with regard to conducting the order's inside work, a buffet luncheon was served by the members of Marion Lodge, No. 402. The remainder of the evening was passed in a social way, a smoker being enjoyed. Chancellor Commander Walker held a reception and shook hands with the majority of the knights attending.

Calanthe Lodge, No. 116, sent the banner delegation. One hundred strong and headed by the Caledonia band, it arrived in Marion shortly after 5 o'clock Thursday afternoon. From the union station the delegation was escorted to the castle hall of Canby Lodge, No. 51, where Frank E. Coon had charge of the arrangements for meeting the remaining incoming delegations.

Morral Lodge, No. 739, of Morral, sent a delegation of forty, and arrived shortly before 8 o'clock, its train being late. The Morral Pythians were met at the station by the Marion and Caledonia knights and escorted to Canby hall, where members from Prospect, Waldo and La Rue had gathered in small numbers.

The Pythian Parade.

After a parade of the downtown streets, the knights assembled in the hall of Marion Lodge, No. 402, for the convention.

The parade was headed by Baker's concert band, followed by Marion Company, No. 15, Uniform Rank, Knights of Pythias, members of the two local Pythian lodges, the Caledonia band and members of Calanthe lodge, and the La Rue, Waldo and Morral knights. Parade captains were George T. Geran, of Marion Lodge, No. 402, and Lee Swick, of Canby Lodge, No. 51.

The convention was declared one of the most enthusiastic ever held.

The general committee on arrangements consisted of Deputy Charles H Conley, Frank E. Coon and Lee Swick The music committee was composed of L. B. McNeal and George W. Baker, while the entertainment committee of Marion Lodge, No. 402, consisted of Lowell H. Smith, S. R. Reber and Frank E. Coon.

TRANSFER FROM FEE TO GENERAL FUND

Commissioners Find the General Fund Almost Depleted.

The county commissioners Saturday transferred $13,048 32 from the county officers' fee fund into the general fund at the request of County Auditor Jay Spaulding Ordinarily this transfer would not be made until the first of the year, but was done at this time so that it will not be necessary to borrow money before January 1.

The average expenditures from the general fund amount to approximately $5,000 a month Without the officers' fees being transferred the general fund would be depleted before the first of the year. November 1, the general fund contained only $2,299.22.

THE BIG GREENHOUSES PROVIDE PRETTY SIGHT

F. E. Blake & Son Make Great Improvements.

THEY NOW OPERATE THIRTEEN HOUSES

Thousands of Beautiful Flowers Are To Be Seen at the Greehouses. Many New Varieties Are Being Tested This Season—The Size of Some of the Blooms.

F E Blake and son, B. F Blake, the florists, have just completed remodeling their plant and. today, have one of the largest and finest greenhouses in the state devoted entirely to cut flowers and potted plants The plant consists of thirteen houses, eight of which were constructed this summer, the last being just completed A new cement cut-flower cellar has also been constructed and a new office is being built.

The prettiest sight in Marion, just now, is to be found within these houses of green What is more beautiful than a chrysanthemum? And here thousands of these beautiful stately flowers in a variety of colors bloom unseen until they have reached their perfection, protected and nourished by the bright sunshine, and skilled workmen. The season opened early in October and will close early in December, and during that time it is estimated 15,000 flowers will have been put on the market from the two chrysanthemum houses. Sixteen or eighteen new varieties are being tested out this year, some of the most popular being the large pink Engahard, the lavender Queen, the white Chadwick and the yellow Brock. Some of these varieties measure from eight to ten inches across, from petal to petal The chrysanthemums are not cut until they are full blown and, like all the other flowers, are placed in water in the cut-flower cellar twenty-four hours before marketing so that the petals may absorb all the water possible No flowers of any kind are ever placed immediately on the market after being cut

Hundreds of Plants.

Thirty-five hundred plants in the two rose houses furnish the market with these lovely flowers, the season for which is just beginning The new rose house is thirty-four by 126 feet It is kept at a temperature of from fifty-four to sixty degrees and the half blown buds are cut each morning. The favorite varieties grown are the red Richmond and the pink and white Kalarney.

In the violet house in the lean-to to the left as you enter the rose house, are found the single California violets which are just now being marketed; sweetpeas, forget-me-nots and snapdragons. To the right of the rose garden is a chrysanthemum and fern house and further on is another large chrysanthemum house filled entirely with the beautiful flowers Then comes one of begonias and other smaller plants which are being started for the spring bedding. In this house are 4,000 colias and 14,000 young geraniums.

Next comes a carnation house, thirty-eight by 126 feet, which houses 5,000 plants Adjoining this are more carnations, gracenas, calla and Easter lilies and other flowers. Farther on are two propagating houses, one for carnations and roses and the other for smaller plants. After passing these you come to another carnation house which has 3,500 plants, making a total of 10,000 carnation plants grown under roof. The estimate of the carnations cut from these plants this season is 300,000 The smilax, or green house as it is called, is filled with asparagus, plumosus, similax and asparagus spangarii. Here are 1,650 strings of smilax In the last building are primroses, azalias and other Christmas plants, which are now beginning to bloomm.

The Heating Plant.

The buildings are heated by two forty-hose-power tubular boilers, gas being used for fuel The water supply is furnished from a 500-barrel tank propelled by a gasoline engine. The buildings are of Moninger construction and all have cement sides with iron supports, and are furnished with eighteen by twenty-four "A" double strength glass, with the exception of the new rose house which has twenty-four by twenty-four glass, making it the lightest house made. This is required on account of the great amount of light needed in the forcing of this particularly sensative flower The ventilation is done by machinery. The buildings vary in width from twelve to thirty-eight feet and nnearly all are 126 feet long. Eight to ten men are constantly at work in the greenhouses and four clerks are employed in the uptown store where many of the flowers are marketed. Half of the flowers grown are sent out of the corporation, wholesaled or sent to surrounding towns.

Thirty-five years ago Mr. Blake came to Marion and purchased a tract of land lying between the Pennsylvania and Hocking Valley railroads, just south of Garden City pike. Thirty years ago he made his first start in the florist's business in a deep hot bed. Three years later he built three greenhouses, which were torn down this summer to make way for the new ones From year to year he added to his plant until today he not only conducts a business on his twenty acres of land but his son, Benjamin Blake, has charge of an up-town store located in the Foye block in west Center street, where they have been in business for the past eight yeras.

GRAND OPERA-HOUSE FIRE IS REPRODUCED

To Make a Film for a Moving-Picture Concern.

A representative of the New York Moving Picture company, who is here to secure local pictures for reproduction at the Columbia theater, secured the consent to take a picture portraying the destruction of the Grand opera-house, which occurred about two years ago.

The run of the fire departments was made from north State street in order to show the department making a speedy trip. A fire was started on the third floor of the ruined building, and during the picture flames and smoke were pouring out the windows, giving the effect of a real fire

The firemen are seen in action and the motor fire-engine is seen pumping The picture promises to attract much interest.

Hundreds of Marionites watched the taking of the films.

A ONCE PROSPEROUS GALION MAN DEAD

Goes Insane Over Religion and Suicide of His Wife.

J. K. Winters, seventy-seven years of age, at one time a prosperous merchant of Galion, passed away at the Crawford county infirmary, Tuesday afternoon. He had been ill some time, his death being attributed to paralysis

The deceased had been at one time and during a long period of years a resident of Galion. Back in the seventies he conducted a shoe store in that city and prospered. During a religious revival he became so deeply interested that his mind gave way and he had to be committed to a hospital for treatment. Eventually he was discharged as cured, and again went into business, afterward working also at his trade as shoemaker. At certain intervals the old mental trouble came back and he had to be cared for Another unfortunate incident in his life was when his wife committed suicide by jumping into a cistern of their home.

JUSTICE UPHELD IN THE SMITH MATTER

Esquire Harrington Had Jurisdiction in the Case.

SO HOLDS THE COURT FRIDAY AFTERNOON

The Widow of the Late William T. Smith Is Now in Position To Carry Her Case to the Court of Appeals To Decide Ownership of the Smith Residence.

Late Friday afternoon, Judge William E. Scofield, affirmed the finding of Justice William H. Harrington, of Caledonia, in the action in forcible detention brought by William Smith, the aged father of the late Representative William T Smith, to oust from possession of a part of a double house on Blaine avenue, Mrs. Nora Smith, widow of the author of the Smith one-per-cent. tax law.

The court fixed a supersedeas bond at $200, but, in staying the enforcement of the justice's judgment of eviction until Mrs. Smith could prosecute error to the court of appeals, did not pass on the title of property That question, he said, was not involved in the action. The question for him to decide was as to the jurisdiction of the justice of the peace, and he said that he thought Justice Harrington had been clearly within his jurisdiction in docketing the suit and in his finding. The question of the title of property could be determined in an equity suit, he said, but he thought the aged Mr. Smith was within his rights to bring an action in forcible detention, although his son's widow had lived in one side of the house for more than twelve years.

Several days ago, when Attorney William P. Moloney, representing Mrs. William T. Smith, sought permission to file a petition-in-error in the common pleas court, when the action was brought to light here for the first time, Judge Scofield then indicated that he believed the justice was clearly within his rights. For fear, he said, that he might be wrong he allowed the filing of a petition-in-error because otherwise Mrs. Smith would be barred from proceeding further in the present action.

The action in forcible detention was brought by Mr. Smith after his son's widow wanted to sell the property, the deed for which is in the name of William Smith. The house, however, Mrs. Smith claims, was built jointly by her late husband and his father. The property is mortgaged for $3,000, the mortgage money having been placed in the Smith Mattress factory, it is claimed, by both William and William T. Smith.

In the $10,000 damage suit of Janet Spicer, administratrix of the estate of Walter B. Spicer, against the Erie Railroad company, Friday afternoon, through Crissinger & Guthery, the defendant company filed a motion to require the plaintiff to set forth the number of the engine and explain precisely in what respect the alleged failure safely to fasten doors and gates had anything to do with the fall of coal from the engine tender. Walter B. Spicer was killed while in the employment of the Erie railroad. The plaintiff is his widow.

Friday afternoon, Judge W. E. Scofield allowed Attorney John C. McNally $35 for defending Charles Edwards, convicted and sentenced to serve two years in the penitentiary for burglary and larceny.

In the suit of the Cleveland Stone company against John W. Scott, the defendant, through Crissinger & Guthery, Friday, filed a motion to compel the plaintiff to make its petition more definite and certain The defendant wants it set forth specifically how the sum of $160.73 is claimed to be due.

County Clerk W. W. Klinefelter and Sheriff John G. Stark, Friday, withdrew from the jury wheel eight additional names to compose a special venire of thirty-six for the murder trial of William DeHaven, December 2. Four of the originally-drawn thirty-six names could not be located, and, under the law, it was necessary to draw just double the number that could not be located.

Those drawn were C. S. Lippincott, R. O. Hopkins, Nevin Gompf, Washington Seckel, George Gast, Charles Allmendinger, John Click and O. P. Linn.

An action, to recover $1,000 on an insurance policy, brought by Janet Spicer, widow of Walter B. Spicer, against the Continental Casualty company, of Chicago, was dismissed by Judge W. E. Scofield, Saturday morning. A settlement was effected out of court. Spicer died as a result of injuries sustained by being struck on the head by a huge chunk of coal falling from an engine tender when he was employed by the Erie Railroad company.

The widow has a $10,000 damage suit against the Erie now pending in the court of common pleas.

In the two $5,000 slander suits of Alma and Everett Ash against Lawson and Andrewmenta DeLauder, the defendants, through H. Edmund Hill, Saturday, filed motions to require the plaintiffs to set out what kind of business they were engaged in October 28, 1912, and how and wherein their alleged business has been damaged.

Susan Camp, administratrix of the estate of Clyde Camp, her seven-year-old son, who was drowned in McKinley lake off Prospect street near McKinley park, August 21, last, brought an action for $10,000 damages against the city of Marion in the court of common pleas, Saturday morning.

The petition was filed by Mouser & Moloney. It sets up that the youngster had been sent upon an errand by his mother and, attracted by the fish in the lake, climbed to the top of a retaining wall, without rail guards, and tumbled off into the water.

The defendant, according to the petition, knew the lake to be dangerous, situated as it was ,but made no attempt to protect the life of small children attracted to it through curiosity or otherwise.

The drowned child was a son of William F. Camp, whose home at the time was within 400 feet of the little lake.

Edgar E. Earl, an employe of the Smith Mattress company's factory on Blaine avenue, testified in Judge William E. Scofield's court, Saturday morning, that his wife Addie .May, chased him out of the house with a broom and severely beat him. That happened last September. Earl further testified that his wife was careless of her household work, and constantly scolded and harangued him.

The wife did not contest, and Judge Scofield granted the husband a decree, the couple having settled on the matter of alimony out of court. She is twenty-four years old, and he is just twice her age. A few days ago Mrs. Earl withdrew her answer and cross-petition and was allowed $50 temporary alimony.

The Earls were married in this city, January 26, 1912. Earl was her second husband, the name of her first husband, from whom she was divorced, being McClung. Her maiden name was Cole.

Saturday morning, Receiver Eli M. West, of the Columbus, Delaware & Marion Railway company, through Attorney Harry M. West, of Columbus, and Mouser & Moloney, of Marion, filed an amended petition in his action to recover judgment for $2,363.80 from the Prospect Electric Light & Power company.

Nothing new is set out in the amended petition, excepting that the terms of the contract by which the C., D. & M. was to furnish power to the Prospect plant are set out more specifically and in more detail.

West seeks to recover on his company's alleged contract the sum of $2,363.80, as stated, with interest.

George W. England's signed and sworn confession to the effect that he wronged his own sixteen-year-old daughter, Elizabeth, last July, in their home at Prospect, was introduced and admitted as evidence in the trial of the father before Judge William E. Scofield, Monday.

The motherless girl occupied the stand the most of the morning and sobbed out her shame to the court and jurors. She wore short dresses. Since she was eleven or twelve years old she said she had been compelled to "work out" for a home.

In the cross-examination of the witness, Attorney Louis E. Myers sought to show the girl's character had been bad long before her father was alleged to have wronged her. He at the same time sought to show that the girl's married sister, Mrs. Goldie Rodman, of Delaware, entertained a dislike for her father. Mrs. Rodman was instrumental in causing the arrest of England.

Monday afternoon, Prosecuting Attorney Myers fought hard to bar this testimony from the jury, but to no avail.

Prosecutor Justice propounded questions and answered them from the stand. Attorney Myers objected to about every question, but almost every time Judge Scofield overruled him.

The state rested its case shortly after dinner, and the evidence of the defendant was begun

The jurors are Michael J. Burke, Edward Conley, John George, Milton Hinamon, George Reichardt, W. W. Beavers, Christian Benzler, William Fairchild, A. E. Clutter, Levi Roseberry, John J. Crawley and Lenox Reber.

Albert Dunn, through Attorney Louis E. Myers, brought an action in the court of common pleas against Anna, Nellie and Fred Beck, Saturday, to declare null and void a conveyance from Anna Beck to Fred Beck.

The plaintiff sets up that, by consideration of Justice Charles E. Gompf, he recovered a judgment against Anna Beck in the sum of $115, with six per cent. interest. To escape paying the judgment, he says Anna Beck conveyed lots Nos. 2856 and 2857 in the Garden City addition to Marion to Fred Beck for the "colorable consideration of $1,000, retaining unto her a life estate in said property, but for no actual or valuable consideration whatever." Fred Beck is alleged to be the eighteen-year-old son of Anna Beck.

A daughter was born, Sunday afternoon, to Mr. and Mrs. T. C. Royer, of Silver street.

WELCOME Z. COURT LOCATED BY OFFICERS

Wanted for Failing To Provide for Illegitimate Child.

Postcards proved the undoing of Welcome Z. Court, indicted by the May grand jury for non-support in failing to provide for a three-year-old illegitimate child.

For several months Court had been sought by humane authorities, but no clew to his whereabouts was obtained until a week ago when, as the result of Court writing a postcadr to a Marion friend, Humane Officer J. W. Ulsh learned where he was located. A warrant was sent to the sheriff at Rochester, Indiana, and Sunday night Sheriff John G. Stark received a message to the effect that Court was under arrest Monday. Sheriff Stark went after the prisoner.

A POCKETBOOK IS FOUND IN MAIL BOX

Contains Certificates of Deposit for Sum of $2,500.

A pocketbook containing two certificates of deposit on the Citizens' National bank, of Zanesville, one for $1,000 and the other for $1,500, was found in a mail box Monday by a mail carrier while he was making his early morning rounds. The certificates were the property of E. V. McKinney, a carpenter in the employ of the American Malleable Castings company.

Sunday evening, Mr. McKinney lost his pocketbook while walking up west Center street. The book contained the certificates and about $1.50 in change. As the money was missing when it was found, it is supposed that the person who picked up the pocketbook on the street, took out the change, and as the certificates were of value only to the owner, threw them into a mail box so that they might be returned.

As soon as Mr. McKinney discovered the loss of the certificates, he immediately notified the Zanesville bank.

TRANSFER OF FUNDS TO THE GENERAL FUND

Amounts Contributed by the Various County Offices.

Saturday afternoon, in transferring $13,042.48 from the officers' fee fund to the almost depleted general fund, as stated in the Star, the following amounts were contributed by the various offices:

Auditor, $3,979.92; clerk, $1,882.01; probate judge, $1,149.21; recorder, $1,496.82, and treasurer, $4,534.52.

From the above it is seen that the sheriff's office is not self-supporting.

$641,000 ADDED TO THE TAX DUPLICATE

As Result of Work of the Board of Review.

REPORTS FILED WITH THE AUDITOR SATURDAY

Board Reports That 500 New Buildings Will Be Placed on the Tax Duplicate Next Spring, Which Will Give One an Idea of the Remarkable Growth of City.

Saturday afternoon, Members L. B. McNeal, G. H. Foster and W. B. Jessop, of the bard of review, filed with County Auditor Jay Spaulding their report, showing that, by their labors, approximately $641,000 will be added to the tax duplicate.

The assessors reported 178 new buildings, with a valuation of $212,095. The board of review members found 225 new structures, with a valuation of $266,510.

The amount of personal property returned by incorporated companies for taxation was $2,767,839. To this big figure, the board added $336,859.61

The assessors returned personal property valuations at $1,722,049, and the board boosted them $38,700.

Under the new tax law, the people returned their property at a valuation nearer the true value in money than ever before, and that is the reason, board members say, that the assessors' valuations of personal property were not increased more than $38,700 this year.

The total additions made by the board, last year, approximated $691,000.

Saturday, members of the board stated that 249 buildings were in course of construction two months ago, when a trip over the city was made. Since then, many new buildings have been erected. Five hundred new buildings will be placed on the duplicate next spring, board members said.

"This gives one some idea of the remarkable growth of Marion," said a board member. "New buildings are popping up everywhere."

Last year the board sent out 1,000 notices to taxpayers concerning the low valuations of properties. This year only 400 similar notices were mailed.

Saturday afternoon, the board adjourned until January, when it will reconvene for a ten-days session to correct any errors that may be reported.

Tearing Down Building.

The work of tearing down the old gas house on south Prospect street is well under way Already the frame structure which has been used in late years for the storage of gas pipes and implements by the Marion Gas company has been completely torn down The tearing away of the interior of the brick structure was begun Monday, and the work is progressing rapidly.

But Two Statements.

Only two statements of candidates were filed with the board of elections, Saturday night. They were those of Dr W. H. Hinklin, Democrat, elected coroner for the third time, who expended $5.50, and C. W. Davidson, defeated Republican candidate for clerk, who expended $68.30 He was assessed by the Republican committee the sum of $40.

BOARD OF REVIEW FINISHES ITS WORK

Members of the Board and Clerk Receive $2,608.50 and Add Sum of $641,000 to the Duplicate—A Ten-Day Session Will Be Held by the Board in January.

It cost Marion taxpayers $2,608.50 for the board of review to boost the tax duplicate approximately $641,000.

The board of review went in session in June and its members received $2,115 in salaries, while its clerk drew $493.50. The board practically completed its work, Saturday, until January, when it will hold a ten-day session.

The salaries and clerk hire paid for the time the board was in session follow:

The closing session of the Woman's Missionary alliance of the Universalist church, was held at the church, Friday afternoon, and was largely attended.

The members of the local congregation served dinner at the church at the noon hour, and the afternoon's session was opened at 1 o'clock with a reading by Rev. Mrs. Crosley and singing by the congregation.

Rev. Mrs. Sara L. Stoner, of Eaton, delivered an excellent address on "The Inspirational Church." This was followed by an explanatory talk on "Japan's Blackmer Home for Japanese Girls," and an appeal for funds for the support of the home. A vocal solo by Mrs. L. Forider, of Toledo, followed.

The Sunday-school department of the alliance work was opened by Mrs. J. D. Streeper, of Columbus, who also gave an interesting reading introductory to the discussion of the topic. A good collection was taken for organization work.

"What the Alliance Has Done for the Marion Mission" was the subject of an interesting paper by Mrs. O. N. Lindsay.

After a vote of thanks extended by the visitors to the members of the Marion alliance for their hospitality, a pleasing vocal selection was contributed by Mrs. Forider.

The meeting adjourned after singing "God Be with You Till We Meet Again."

THE RAILROADS.

While walking down the Erie tracks near the MJ tower, Sunday morning about 2 o'clock, J. Prendergast, of Toledo, a locomotive engineer, employed on the Erie railroad construction work, caught his right foot in a switch just as the switch was thrown from the tower. He waved his lantern frantically and called for help, but was unable to attract attention. Finally he cut off his shoe with his pocket-knife and extricated himself in that manner. The foot was badly mashed. Notwithstanding he walked probably a mile before he met any one. He was almost ready then to collapse. The Hess & Market ambulance was summoned and he was removed to the Marion City hospital, where he was given the necessary surgical attention. No bones were broken, but his foot was torn and lacerated.

WHAT MAY RESULT FROM COURT DECISION

C., D. & M. Road May Be Sold at Sheriff's Sale.

COMPANY MUST PAY CATROW CLAIM SOON

Four Months Allowed To Meet Obligations—The Matter Decided by the Circuit Court of Franklin County Is Whipsawed Through the Courts About Three Years.

According to the decision of the circuit court in Columbus, Monday, the Columbus, Delaware & Marion railway will be sold at sheriff's sale, unless the company can pay the Catrow claim of $72,963 and another claim of $5,000 within four months.

The C. D. & M. has been in litigation for three years, or since Newton J. Catrow filed suit for the $73,963 and asked for a receiver. The Webb interests, which have been in control, attempted to have the receiver appointed by the Marion county courts, but attorneys for an opposing faction hurried to Columbus and filed the suit with Judge Kinkead, who appointed George Whysall.

Whysall Removed.

Four days later Judge Kinkead, in settlement of the dispute between the courts, appointed Whysall joint receiver, but removed him on September 29, 1909, since which time Eli M. West has been in sole charge.

The interests represented by John G. Webb have been making an unceasing fight to regain control, filing affidavits of prejudice against Judge Kinkead, who was sustained by Judge Goldsbury, presiding over the common pleas district, and proceeding in the Marion county courts with the grounds that the actions of the Franklin county courts were outlawed and illegal.

The decision of the circuit court throws out all actions of and proceedings in the Marion county courts, and confirms the jurisdiction of Judge Kinkead, of Columbus.

Note Not Cancelled.

The Catrow claim arises from a note of $372,391 given by the road to John G. Webb, its president, for investment. The note was given Catrow as security for $72,963, which was due from Webb It provided that the road might pay it by issuing $500,000 in preferred stock to Webb. The stock was issued and Webb received $300,000 of it, the remainder being placed in the hands of the trustees The circuit court holds that the issue did not cancel the note and that judgment on it holds good.

The $1,100,000 common stock held by Catrow as security for a debt of $48,000 must be returned to Webb on payment of the $72,963, the court rules

The decision reduces the claim of O. M Gottschall, who wanted $16,000 for legal service to $5,000.

THE LOOK THAT LIFTS UP LIFE

By William T. Ellis.

The International Sunday-School Lesson for November 24 Is, "The Transfiguration," Mark 9:12-13.

"One crowded hour of glorious life" is the poet's phrase, as he sings the worth-whileness of a supreme experience. To have been at Balaclava, or on either side of the fence at the bloody angle at Gettysburg, is to have lived greatly, though all the remaining days be common A great experience of patriotism, of human love, or spiritual ecstasy, is worth a lifetime of ordinary incidents; or rather, it glorifies all common days

Such a vision lifts life. God plans it so. That is why He gave the prophet the vision of the 7,000 who had not bowed their knees to Baal. Therefore the Book of the Revelation, and the transfiguration are in the inspired scriptures. In the dull and the dark days, and in the hours of heavy heartedness, the moments of vision and inspiration rally to our help. That is why the thought of a great Christian convention, of an immense Bible class parade, of the glorious news of the Church's foreign victories should be cherished as memories that sustain service. Herein is a sound reason why we should all be diligent readers of news of the kingdom

Behind the Soup Kitchen.

This Sunday-school lesson has no soup kitchen or medical dispensary flavor. There is no social service aspect to it. It is not on the plane of humdrum ministry to men's material needs. Yet it deals with that which is behind all forms of ministry. For here we confront religion's richest reality. The Transfiguration is a spiritual experience It gives a glimpse of Christ as God's sent Son. Its study should do for us what it did for the three disciples: make clear the character of Jesus. Let us entertain no misapprehension here; religion is more than a ministry to the world; it is first of all a spiritual apprehension. The vision and acceptance of the Son of God are the heart of hearts of the Christian faith Before it is a social service, Christianity must be a soul experience.

The little group of friends of Christ, up near the foot of Mt. Hermon, had been meditating upon his high, hard teaching of the cross, which we studied last Sunday. The record is silent concerning the week that followed. Only in our minds can we conceive of the deep questionings and broodings over this new presentation of what discipleship meant The depth of fellowship experienced at this "retreat" is beyond our ken. Upon these followers had dawned the truth that their association with their Leader was not to be permanent Sadness overshadowed the company. Then followed the contrast, the transfiguration which enabled them to look higher than the cross to what lay beyond.

Sharing a Secret.

Partly because they were fittest and closest to His heart—for there are degrees in the friendship of Jesus—but more because they were to be the leaders in service, and therefore most needed this equipment, the three familiars of the Master, Peter, James and John, were taken up to the heights of Mt. Hermon with Him. High was their privilege, but deep was their obligation. It has been said that Christ comforts us, not to make us comfortable, but to make us comforters This transfiguration experience was an equipment for ministry. The three were taken into the confidence of Jesus; they shared His great secret, which they should keep within their breasts until the time was ripe for its full revelation. The subsequent experiences of Golgotha and the Garden were to be illuminated by the shining light seen on the Mount of Transfiguration.

Like burrs or barbs, Bible phrases have a way of sticking. Thus we read that it was "as He was praying" that all these things came to pass. The transfiguration experience was a mountain-top prayer meeting. Now, as then, it is the prayer-filled life that has its transfiguration moments, and beholds the Redeemer as He is.

The Outshining of Inner Light.

Suddenly befell the miracle. The three Galileans saw their Friend, with whom they had eaten and slept and traveled, begin to glow in His person with a glistening light. His whole being radiated whiteness and luminosity. The entire texture of His person and His clothes became aglow. They sought in vain for something with which to compare this wonderful vision. They said that His clothes "became glistening, exceeding white; so as no fuller on earth can whiten them." The very fibre of the Master's body and raiment was luminous. He was not clothed upon with light coming from without; this was the outshining of an inner glow. It was as if the veil were momentarily drawn aside and the true nature of the divine Son made apparent. On this mountain top was afforded a revelation of the glorious possibilities of the life of the Redeemer and His own. It was a veritable glimpse of the heavenly appearance.

Nor was this transfiguration all of the miracle. The occasion was one of transcendent significance. It meant much to the realms of glory. Heaven's hosts were more concerned in the work of the Man of Galilee than they were in all the choruses of the choirs of the redeemed. From near the very throne of God were sent two congenial spirits down to the mountain top to confer with Christ. Both Moses and Elijah had on earth been great leaders and testifiers. Both had suffered for the truth; both had gone the way of the cross. Now to them fell the noblest task of their eternal existence, that of comforting Christ as He drew near his cross; and of once more bearing witness to Him

The story is a glimpse of the heavenly resources of God's servants. The King's business has the King's help. God's work on earth is not done apart from God's knowledge in Heaven. The way of life is not altogether a "via dolorosa." as said a later disciple, "The sufferings of this present time are not worthy to be compared with the glory which shall be revealed to us-ward." Let us take time to think about the glory.

The Great Conversation.

It is left to the devout imagination to know what the itinerant teacher talked about as He walked the highways of Palestine. Here in this instance nothing is left to imagination: we are definitely informed. The gossips of Europe question what the Emperor of Germany and the Czar of Russia talked about at their recent meeting. We are clearly told the theme of this "conference of the powers" on the height of Mt. Hermon. Jesus and Moses and Elijah talked of the decease which the Saviour was shortly to accomplish at Jerusalem. The final act of redemption was the supreme concern of heaven and of earth. Ask me what this city is most interested in at the moment and I cannot answer of a certainty. We do know, however, what is constantly the most interesting theme in heaven's councils. The passion and death of the Saviour is the topic of the ages. It is of supreme importance to earth and to heaven. Those who dismiss the crucifixion as merely incidental in the exemplary life of Jesus should remember the transfiguration; for the Mount of Transfiguration fronted toward Mt. Calvary.

Yesterday I talked with a friend, and for a while our talk was casual and commonplace. Then, after a time it drew on to the theme of a loved one's death. At once the conversation took on a new intimacy. The closest friends talk of deepest things. These six on the mountain top were engrossed primarily in the approaching passion of the Redeemer. Through all the ages since, the best friends of Christ, in their profoundest hours, have meditated and conversed upon Calvary.

The Blunder of Embarrassed.

Even on the mountain top, our old friend Peter again blundered. He was embarrassed by the stupendous experience. He did not know what he was saying, so he proposed that they build booths and tarry on the mountain top. We could reproach Peter if this were his serious and mature thought; it was only one of his vagrant impulses, as unconsidered as the wish of some convention goers that they might prolong the precious experience of fellowship and inspiration forever. To Peter the mountain top seemed better than the valley of humiliation He preferred the glory to the cross.

But Peter had missed the point of it all. That pinnacle of outlook was only one station on the road of service. Life must be lived on the plain; but it may be lived in the power of the transfiguration mount. The reality of the ecstatic experience is to be proved down amid the people, with all their common needs. Life is not made up of transports; love cannot exist on kisses. Duty is the normal expression of devotion.

So these friends were to take the great secret, shared with them by Jesus, and to bear it out amid the uncomprehending, suffering multitudes; and therein to be borne up by it. They had had a great hour, which would hearten them through the dark days. To them had been given the look that should lift life up to a higher plane.

The Voice from Clouds.

From every aspect, this wonderful event on the mountain top was an experience in witness-bearing. By it Jesus testified to the disciples, by it Moses and Elijah testified to Jesus. Then, crowning all, the voice from heaven testified to Christ. All these jointly bear testimony to the world.

The event was tremendously staged. Some minds balk at it, as too full of marvel and miracle. Why should it not be accompanied by the most extraordinary accessories, for here was uttered the greatest truth of all the ages. "This is my beloved Son, in whom I am well pleased; hear ye him." Heaven has no higher function than to testify to earth of God's love, as revealed in His Son. The message of the transfiguration is the deepest truth for the times, "This is my beloved Son, hear ye him."

ENGLAND IS FOUND GUILTY OF CHARGES

Jurors Quickly Reach Verdict, Monday Afternoon.

THE PRISONER MAKES AN UNUSUAL CLAIM

Says He Is Victim of Daughter—The Charges Made by Little Girl and Involving a Prominent Prospect Township Farmer Will Be Taken Up by the Prosecutor Soon.

"Guilty as charged in the indictment"

George W. England, fifty-three years old, charged with wronging his own motherless daughter, Elizabeth, sixteen years old, dropped his head as Foreman John J. Crawley read the jury's verdict, Monday afternoon about 5 o'clock. England had been convicted on the first ballot. The penalty for his crime is from one to ten years in the Ohio penitentiary.

The father was placed on the witness stand in his own defense by his attorney, Louis E. Myers, Monday afternoon at 3:30 oclock. He practically admitted all the contents of the sworn and signed confession obtained from him by Prosecuting Attorney Charles L. Justice through the aid of a dictagraph, but qualified it by saying that he and not his daughter had been forced. This assertion caused the faces of the jurors to become wreathed in smiles.

After England's testimony, it did not take the attorneys long to argue the case, nor Judge William E. Scofield long to charge the jury.

The jurors were unanimous that England was guilty and they speedily prepared their verdict.

The charge made by the little girl during the trial that a prominent Prospect township farmer, with whom she had lived, had first wronged and held illicit relations with her for a period of two years, will be investigated further by Prosecutor Justice.

Tuesday it was learned that the same story was told by Elizabeth England to the last grand jury, but that it could not be corroborated, and in consequence no indictment was returned.

The jurors in England's trial were John J. Crawley, foreman; Michael J. Burke, Edward Conley, John George, Milon Hinamon, George Reichardt, W. W. Beavers, Christian Benzler, William Fairchild, A. E. Clutter, Levi Roseberry, and Lenox Reber.

DR. J. M. HOSKINS IS SHOT BY ORREN PATTEN

An Accident in the Hunting Field Tuesday Afternoon.

Dr. J. M. Hoskins, of north Main street, was the victim of a hunting accident, at 1 o'clock Tuesday afternoon, receiving a full charge of 109 shot in the back, just below the left shoulder. The accident was due to the gun of Orren Patten being accidentally discharged.

Dr. Hoskins, Patten and a third party were hunting several miles south of Agosta, having made the trip in the victim's automobile. One of the dogs took a point along a fence, Patten being on one side and his two companions on the other. Hoskins assumed a crouching position when the dog came to a point and the dog making a jump caused Patten to step back. As he did, the button of his coat caught on the trigger and discharged one barrel of the gun. Hoskins raised at the same instant and received the full charge from a side position.

Dr. Hoskins drove his automobile back to Marion, having several slight fainting spells enroute. He went direct to his home on north Main street where Dr. H. L. Uhler was called to remove the shot and give him the necessary attention. Owing to the excellent physical condition of the victim, it is not thought the accident will lay him up for any length of time.

PEELING BUYS WEAPON AND MAKES THREATS

Is Arrested as He Is Leaving Schults Pawnshop.

WORRIES OVER DEATH OF LITTLE DAUGHTER

William Ruth Is Arrested on a Charge of Nonsupport — Blanch Penn Seeks Assistance of Police To Secure Her Clothing from Hands of Father.

Shortly before 9 o'clock Tuesday morning, Officers Thompson and Powell arrested T. J. Peeling, who conducts a grocery on north Main street, and locked him in the city prison for safe keeping. A boy reported to the officers that Peeling was using profane language and talking in a threatening way in front of Peeling's place of business.

According to the story of the officers, Peeling has been threatening his wife for the past two weeks, and, Tuesday, stated that he intended getting a revolver and killing her. He went to the pawnshop of F. J. Schultz where he purchased a thirty-eight caliber revolver and a box of cartridges. He was taken in custody by the officers when he made his exit from the store. The revolver purchased by Peeling was loaded when he was taken in charge. Peeling is the father of little Maud Peeling, who lost her life in trying to get between some cars at the Oak street crossing in going to school several years ago. Worry over the accident and the damage suit which followed it is thought has affected Peeling's mind.

A pink cape found by Officer Powell has been placed at police headquarters to await the call of an owner.

William Ruth was arrested Tuesday, by officer Powell on a warrant charging him with nonsupport. The affidavit for the warrant was sworn to by Josephine Ruth, the wife of the defendant, November 5, the circumstances then being detailed in the Star.

Monday afternoon, Blanch Penn, colored, called at the mayor's office and asked the assistance of an officer to help her secure her belongings which she claimed her father was keeping from her. The woman stated that she had been keeping house for her father who has a small room at the Simpson home on north State street.

Neither the father nor daughter were satisfied with the conduct of each other, so the latter decided to leave, but when she went after her clothes the door was locked. The officer accompanied her to the house and she secured part of her belongings, but in order to secure three dollars which the father had taken from her purse, she was compelled to leave a pair of shoes and an old scarf which the father had purchased and presented her.

A BATTERY OF TWELVE MAMMOTH NEW KILNS

Ohio & Western Lime Company Makes Improvement.

ONE OF THE LARGEST PLANTS IN COUNTRY

The Increased Demand for Lime of Company Makes Change in Equipment Absolutely Necessary — A New Process for Hydrating Lime Is Installed by Company.

A battery of twelve mammoth kilns is being constructed by the Ohio & Western Lime company at its plant located just north of the city. When completed, the battery will give the company a total capacity of twenty-seven kilns in Marion, and make it one of the most modern as well as one of the biggest plants of the kind in the country.

A large force of men is now employed on the erection of the kilns, which are of the most modern type. The increased capacity is necessary in order promptly to handle the company's large demand for Marion lime.

The work will be pushed vigorously to insure completion in time for early spring business. With the new kilns, nine cars of lime will be produced daily at plant No. 3, which was formerly owned by the Norris & Christian Lime & Stone company.

At this plant a new process of hydrating lime has been installed and it is now possible to ship lime in carload lots. The hydrating process prevents the lime from slacking, providing the lime is kept dry. What is known as an agricultural mill has also been installed. In the agriculture mill the lime is ground fine and used for agricultural purposes.

When all of the contemplated improvements have been made, it is estimated that $25,000 will have been expended.

The immediate need for the construction of the battery of kilns at No. 3 plant was caused by the recent collapse of a portion of the plant when dynamiting. Another reason was that the kilns were of a primitive type and would have soon become unsafe, so it was decided to raze them all and build anew.

It is the announced policy of the Ohio & Western Lime company not only to convert its local plants into the most permanent and up-to-date of their kind in the Middle West, but at the same time decidedly to increase its already enormous capacity at this point.

As the men neared a small stream, and when Miller was about thirty feet to one side of Postal, the latter fired at a rabbit. Miller states that he saw the charge of shot strike the water, and, one of the pellets glancing from the surface of the stream, struck him in the center of the left eyeball. WITNESSES FOR STATE GO FREE

Webber, Vallon, Schepps and Rose Liberated.

EARN THEIR LIBERTY BY THEIR TESTIMONY

Rose Says He Can Be Found at Lawyer's Office.

The Four Men Realize That Their Lives Are in Danger, Because of Their Part in Sending Becker and the Gun Men to the Chair—Part of Them Plan To Leave the City as Soon as They Can.

New York, Nov. 21.—Jack Rose, Louis Webber, Harry Vallon and Sam Schepps, the chief witnesses for the state against Charles Becker and the four gun men convicted of assassinating Herman Rosenthal at Becker's behest, were released today.

As soon as the four men learned they were to be set free, they appealed to District Attorney Whitman for an armed guard to protect them from avenging friends of the four gun men among the East Side gangsters.

Rose, Webber, Vallon and Schepps earned their liberty by turning state's evidence against Becker, Gyp the Blood," "Lefty Louie," "Whitey Lewis" and "Dago Frank.'

Knowing from threats made against them, that their lives are in constant danger, part of them planned to leave New York either for a long period or permanently.

Schepps was the first one freed. He was released by Magistrate Murphy in the West Side court on the recommendation of District Attorney Whitman. He had been held on a technical charge of vagrancy. As soon as he left court he went to the office of Attorney Thomas Reilly, who is counsel for Mrs. Schepps.

Schepps, when he went to Hot Springs, failed to pay $10 a week to his wife, as ordered by the court, but today he declared he was going to square things with her.

Rose, Webber and Vallon were released shortly after Schepps left the West Side prison When Rose was asked if he was frightened and if he would flee, he replied:

"I shall be at my lawyer's office every morning at 10 o'clock and I shall be glad to welcome any gun men there, who wish to see me."

"BOSS" BILL FLINN DESERTS BULL MOOSE

Will Go Back to Republican Party of Pennsylvania.

Pittsburgh, Nov. 21.—After spending approximately $250,000 to carry Pennsylvania for Roosevelt and incidentally to establish himself as boss to succeed Senator Boise Penrose, William Flinn has deserted the Bull Moose party and will go back into the Republican party.

This notwithstanding the declaration from Oyster Bay that "the party must live"—the Progressive party of Roosevelt—and that the cause must go forward.

Flinn has decided to devote his efforts to retaining control of the Republican organization that he won away from Penrose.

Whatever may be the ultimate fate of the Bull Moose in this state, it has served Flinn's purpose for the present, and Flinn is preparing to send his Washington party and Roosevelt Progressive party senators and legislators into the Republican party caucus, prior to the opening of the assembly at Harriaburg

This will draw the party lines between Republican and Democrat, as in the past, and settles all doubt concerning Flinn's caucus plans. It is said to be part of Flinn's design to weld his new organization together and to cinch his control of the legislature, so that his legislative program may be carried out.

Later, Seibert returned to his buggy and drove to his home in the country. When he reached for the gold it was gone.

THE RAILROADS.

According to information received, Wednesday, from an official source, the new Erie office building is to be constructed on Kenton avenue where the old water tank is now located. It was the opinion of many of the employes that the new building would be constructed on the vacant plat just northwest of the union station, this being deemed a most desirable site by the employes, but the officials had better reasons for putting the new building west of Kenton avenue. It is understood that the new building will also be the home of the telegraph office now located at the union station.

BRYAN OFFERED BIG FAT PLUM

Is Slated for the Position of Secretary of State.

COMMONER IS LIKELY TO ACCEPT THE POST

Will Help the President-Elect in Choosing a Cabinet.

The Power Which the Nebraskan Will Have in the Next Administration Can No Longer Be Minimized. Bryan's Forthcoming Visit to Bermuda Is Probably To Confer With Wilson About the Matter.

Washington, Nov. 20. — William J. Bryan will be secretary of state in the cabinet of President Woodrow Wilson, providing he accepts It was learned on authority that can hardly be questioned that the premier post in the Wilson administration has been offered to the Nebraskan and that he probably will accept Furthermore, Mr. Bryan apparently will be one of Mr. Wilson's chief advisers in selecting the new cabinet.

The tender to Mr. Bryan of the portfolio of state is the only cabinet matter that has been formally settled up to this time.

Mr Bryan's influence in the next administration can no longer be minimized. The president-elect has made acknowledgments to the leader of the so-called progressive wing of the Democracy by inviting him to sit at his right at the council table and to advise with him in forming a cabinet. He apparently has performed for Mr Bryan the same office that President-elect Taft did for Philander C Knox four years ago, by offering him the secretaryship of state at the very outset of the making of his cabinet and commissioning him to assist in building the administrative machine.

This is the significance that is now attached to Mr. Bryan's forthcoming visit to Bermuda, which was reported in press dispatches from Hamilton, Bermuda, where President Wilson is now reposing. Mr. Bryan has been in Washington for more than a week. While he has been very guarded in his talks even with his personal friends, he has conferred with many of the party leaders, and to some of them he has appeared in a conciliatory attitude, advising harmony and apparently showing a willingness to co-operate for future party success.

OHIO WOMEN PAY HUSBANDS ALIMONY

Over 600 of Them Are Thus Engaged at the Present.

Washington, Nov. 21.—Six hundred and seventy-three divorced women in Ohio are paying alimony to their former husbands.

Ohio leads all of the states in the number of its sons who are living on alimony furnished by their former wives.

Illinois ranks next with 523, then comes Kansas with 476, Indiana with 453, Michigan 443, Iowa, 432, Missouri 328, Nebraska 243 and Kentucky 143.

FEDERAL RAID CATCHES MANY

Government Crusade Against Medical "Quacks"

WILL SHATTER THE ILLEGAL PRACTICES

Largest Single Haul in History of the Department.

Warrants Are Issued in 173 Cases. Postmaster General Hitchcock Is Given Credit for the Successful Crusade — Prosecution Will Be Handled by United States District Attorneys in the Various States.

Washington, Nov. 21.—Postoffice department officials today expressed the belief that the nation-wide raids of yesterday on "quack" medical concerns, charged with misuse of the mails, and in connection with which the department has worked for two years, will shatter the criminal practices against which cities have been powerless in the past.

It was announced that, in the two years during which postoffice inspectors have been investigating these individuals and concerns, more than 1,800 arrests have been made and 900 convicted.

Warrants were issued in 173 cases and 390 inspectors, under the direction of Chief Inspector Robert S. Sharpe, were engaged in preparing the evidence which resulted in the wholsale arrests.

With the raids completed and the indictments effective, the work of the inspectors is completed. The results of the crusade are still being recived in telegrams from various division quarters. The raids yesterday were the largest single "haul" in the history of the postoffice department.

Hitchcock at the Head.

Postmaster General Hitchcock is given credit for the new method of proceeding against fraudulent medical concerns. It has been customary to issue fraud orders which merely prevented an individual from enjoying the use of mails in his own name. The postmaster general's action in proceeding criminally against these concerns is expected to result in the annihilation of fraudulent medical practice.

The prosecution will be handled by United States district attorneys. In each of the 173 cases the inspector in charge has prepared a detailed statement of the alleged violations of law, which includes names of government witnesses, and this has been placed in the hands of the district attorney where the arrest was made.

The trials will be held in the federal courts in the various states. In a few of the cases it is possible the inspectors may be summoned as witnesses. Beyond that they will take no part in the prosecutions.

The punishment for violation of the laws respecting the use of the mails is a $1,000 fine or five years imprisonment or both.

The department of justice will not take a hand in the crusade of the postoffice department against physicians and midwives arrested for violation of the postal laws, according to Bruce Bailaski, chief of the bureau of investigation of the department.

The thief took the small money purses from the large purses and, as a result, Miss Andrews is out about $16 and Mrs C. B McGuire, of south Grand avenue, is minus a little more than a dollar which she had in change. Shortly before the theft was discovered, a colored man was found in the reception room by Mrs. McGuire. GEORGE J. PEELING GIVEN HIS LIBERTY

A Hearing in the Probate Court, Thursday Morning.

Arraigned before Judge William S Spencer on a lunacy charge, Thursday morning, George J. Peeling a grocer, declared that he had been on a crazy drunk and vehemently protested against being declared of unsound mind "I bought the revolver, your honor to kill rats around the place," he said

Following a careful examination of Peeling by Drs G T Harding and Herman S Rhu, Judge Spencer continued the case indefinitely and allowed him his liberty. Peeling talked rationally enough and insisted that he had been crazed by drink. He promised never to drink again "I never harmed any one in my life," he told the court

Mrs. Melissa Buchanan, of north Prospect street, a neighbor of the Peelings, declared she believed the man's mind had been affected ever since the tragedy two years ago when his twelve-year-old daughter, Maud, was killed by a train at the Oak street crossing while enroute to school. Mrs Estelle Kline, another neighbor, testified her belief that Peeling's mind had been affected by strong drink. Mrs Peeling, the wife, said that a sister of the husband died in an insane asylum

On the recommendation of the two physicians, Judge Spencer declined to adjudge Peeling insane His future conduct will be closely observed and reported, however
